

AIR CRAFTS
DROP BOMBS
NEAR LONDONGERMAN AIR RAIDERS REPORTED
LAST NIGHT IN KENT, ESSEX AND SUFFOLK.

MANY TOWNS VISITED

No Loss of Lives Results From Explosives Although Considerable Property Was Destroyed.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, April 16.—London no longer considers itself immune from air raiders of the Zeppelin type. It is realized also that even aeroplanes could bombard the city.

Nevertheless the public is skeptical of the powers for harm of Zeppelins. The trifling damage done during the night raids of Wednesday and Thursday are being withheld in justification of this feeling. It would appear that the latest aeroplane used bombs of incendiary rather than explosive character.

London, April 16.—It is reported that a German aeroplane at mid-day today dropped bombs near Canterbury, which is fifty-three miles east of London.

Two hostile aeroplanes were reported over the city of Canterbury, which is fifty-three miles east of London.

A German aeroplane dropped bombs this afternoon on Sittingbourne and Faversham.

The damage done by the German aeroplane in Kent was negligible as far as is known at the present time. Two bombs were dropped on Faversham but no damage resulted. The aeroplanes which dropped bombs on Faversham were shot down by local marksmen, but their aim apparently was poor.

Flying over Sittingbourne the airman dropped another bomb, but the only result with the digging of a hole in an orchard. Still another bomb was dropped into a chalk quarry. The German machine then started for the sea by way of Deal, from which direction it had appeared over Kent.

At least two Zeppelins raided the counties of Suffolk and Essex early this morning and dropped bombs within thirty-six miles of London, but the aeroplanes which dropped bombs on the latter county were shot down by local marksmen, but their aim apparently was poor.

A large number of bombs were dropped on towns and villages, but no loss of lives was reported.

More Than One Ship.

The number of airships which took part in the raid is uncertain, but it is assumed that more than one, as at least three were seen over the city of London.

The first was on Malden at 12:20 a. m. by Zeppelins which previously passed over Southminster. After dropping bombs at Malden, the airship turned at Highbridge and dropped bombs at Haybridge. It may have been the same craft seen at one o'clock flying over Harwich in the direction of Ipswich.

A second airship was made between 12:20 and 12:45 on Southwold, ten miles south of Lowestoft, on the North Sea.

At Lowestoft, where three bombs were dropped, a lumber yard was set on fire, three houses were killed and many windows broken; at Southwold, where several bombs were dropped, railroad trucks were fired; at Malden a house was struck, but only slightly damaged; at Highbridge, where several bombs were dropped, but no damage has been reported.

Vessel Sights Aircraft.

A telegram received from Muiden, in Holland, says the Norwegian steamer Dania came into that port this morning and reports having sighted the Zeppelin airship at five o'clock at a point fifteen miles off the Dutch coast. The airship was headed in the direction of Germany and is believed to be one of the invaders on her way home.

Call Special Police.

Pronounced activity that the German airship bases at Emden and Tuxhaven today is reported in telegrams from Holland. An urgent call was issued in London this afternoon for special police to go on duty at 5:00 p. m.

According to reports from Holland, three Zeppelins were seen today flying westward over Dutch Island in the North Sea. Count Zeppelin is said to be directing the movement at Tuxhaven.

French Aviators Active.

Basel, via Berlin and wireless to London, April 16.—French aviators dropped bombs near Rotterdam and on the Dutch coast. According to the National Zeitung, these places are said to be without aircraft guns.

The French official statement issued last night stated that aviators had bombed the station of Freiburg-Breisgau, about thirty miles west of the place mentioned by the National Zeitung.

HELD FOR VIOLATING
LAW ON BANKRUPTCY

Two Milwaukee Men Arrested in Chicago for Failure to Furnish Detailed Statements.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Chicago, April 16.—Wm. P. Burke and Oscar C. Hunt, members of a Milwaukee firm involved in bankruptcy proceedings in the United States district court in that city, were arrested here today charged with violating the bankruptcy law. The arrests were made on complaint of the local bureau of investigation of the department of justice. The men are alleged to have refused to file a schedule of assets and liabilities in compliance with the order of the district court. Their bonds were fixed at $1,000 each pending a hearing to determine whether they should be taken back to Milwaukee. Both men refused to discuss the case for publication.

War News Summary.

Another raid by a German airship, the third in as many days, was reported from London. It is said a German aeroplane dropped bombs in Kent. This is the first instance of a daylight attack by German aviators flying over England.

Although no great battles are in progress with the exception of the struggle on the 115 mile front between Barthfield and Stry in the Carpathians, active operations are being undertaken over increasingly wide sections of both the eastern and western fronts.

Official reports from Paris reveal a resumption of hostilities in northern France in the neighborhood of Arras. In the east the Russians have taken up the attack along the Warsaw front after the long winter lull. They claim the capture of a village about thirty miles from the Polish capital. In the vicinity of Osovetz, near the Prussian frontier, fighting also has been resumed.

Holland is deeply stirred by the sinking of the Dutch steamer Katwijk, bearing a cargo consigned to the government of the Netherlands. The Dutch minister of marine, after investigation, expressed the opinion that the vessel was sunk by a German submarine.

DROWNS IN CISTERN

ENDING LONG LIFE;

TEMPORARY INSANE

Mrs. Dedrick Schooff, Commits Suicide Early This Morning at Home Near Ho-nona Park.

Following a period of temporary insanity, and a long illness, Mrs. Dedrick Schooff, residing about four miles south of Beloit, near Ho-nona park, committed suicide early this morning by sliding down a plank into a cistern in the yard near the home and drowning.

Mrs. Schooff arose about 4:30 this morning, and went out into the yard. It is evident that she committed the act soon after leaving the house, as the inquest held this morning revealed the fact that the deed was intentional.

The deceased was 70 years of age, and leaves an aged husband, three children and five stepchildren. Augustus and Frank Schooff were at home and William on the Beloit road. The five stepchildren are: Mrs. D. Bailey, who resides on the Town Line road; D. Schooff of Baraboo; H. Schooff of New York; D. H. Schooff of Hampshire, Ill.; and John P. Schooff of New York; D. H. Schooff market on West Milwaukee street in this city.

Funeral services will be Sunday afternoon at the home, the hour not having been determined as yet. Other announcements later.

LET SEWER CONTRACT

TO MILWAUKEE FIRM

Large Amount of Work Will Be Completed This Season at Reasonable Figure.

G. W. Mulholland of Milwaukee was awarded the sewer contract by the Janesville city commission this afternoon when the bids were opened at the city hall. The figure submitted by the Milwaukee company was the lowest that has been offered in years for sewer work in Janesville. Price schedule will be: fifty cents for eight inch sewer in districts No. 5 and 15; fifty cents for ten-inch sewer in district No. 16; fifty-five cents for ten-inch sewer in districts No. 10, 11 and 14; sixty cents for twelve-inch sewer in district No. 10; man-holes $35, and lampholes $5 each.

WIN, SAYS RITTMAN

Dr. Walter F. Rittman.

Dr. Walter F. Rittman, the discoverer of processes which are expected to revolutionize the manufacture of gasoline, tulfal and benzol, attributes to his wife much of his success. "While America produces three-fourths of the oil in the world," explains Dr. Rittman, "it is a fact that we have to go to foreign literature for our information. Mrs. Rittman was trained in the languages and helped a great deal in the translations we found it necessary to make."

PEACE FLAG FLIES FROM MASTHEAD OF VESSEL BEARING U. S. DELEGATES TO WOMEN'S PEACE CONFERENCE AT THE HAGUE

American delegates to Women's Peace Conference at The Hague and their peace flag. Arrow points to Jane Addams.

A huge peace flag floated from a masthead of the Holland-American line steamship Noordam—now on her way to Europe—as the forty or more delegates from America sailed away from New York on this vessel for Rotterdam to attend the Women's Peace Conference at The Hague the latter part of this month. The flag was a snow white, bearing the word "Peace" in blue letters. The American delegation is headed by Miss Jane Addams of Chicago, who will preside at the conference.

ENGLAND DISREGARDS

CONSCRIPTION TALK

Government Serenely Continues to Secure Recruits With Posters and Newspaper Advertisements.

London, April 16.—It is impossible even for members of parliament to find out how many soldiers Great Britain has in training. They have put the question in the house of commons and the war office refused to answer it, saying information would be so valuable to the enemy it must remain secret.

Meanwhile the friends of conscription, which includes Lord Northcliffe's paper, are preaching of the need of preparing for that form of recruiting and in the daily papers are such appeals as that appearing today from the recruiting committee, from Taunton, which says:

"As all efforts to obtain the enlistment of many hundreds of young eligible single men in this town, and district fail to meet with success, it is suggested that the government should have allowed the forestry committee's bill to go through. Both bills aid at consolidation of the offices of state fish and game warden, state fish commission, state park board, state board of forestry and state conservation commission."

Frank L. Gilbert, attorney for the present investigating committee, who made the principal argument for its bill, offered to allow the forestry committee's bill to have the right of way, subject to amendment to incorporate the committee's ideas, and said his committee was willing that any credit for the consolidation go the prior body. It was the result which both sought for which he pleads, not the consolidation of the offices of state fish and game warden, state fish commission, state park board, state board of forestry and state conservation commission.

Mr. Gilbert, quoted the department's reports to show that it spent $100,000 in a certain month when the legislature was not in session and only $4,000 in the corresponding month when there was no session. He had been told that the force was diminished in some months, but he did not understand why the difference in expense should be so large for the same month in consecutive years.

The investigating committee's bill providing for a trained forester, a fish and game expert and a business man as members of the proposed board of state fish and game, was defended by Mr. Gilbert as providing a well balanced board. They must live in Madison and devote their full time to the department. He said the compensation was put low to avoid the accusation that a sinecure was being created for some friends of the governor. Otherwise they might have made it $5,000.

The whole object of this bill, as of the rest of the consolidation plans, said Mr. Gilbert, was to center responsibility for the management of the state departments and the control of their expenditures in the governor. To have the board of control, he said, he said the governor is entirely helpless as to the matter of fixing the number of employees and control of their expenditures. This bill gives the governor a voice in the management of state departments and, he added, "makes him give account of his stewardship."

T. S. Shepard of Rhinelander, who admitted he represented "pretty nearly everybody in my way," declared that the bill was "a good deal of the management of state parks and forestry."

Assemblyman Nordman of Langdon county said he favored the principle of the bill, but he voted for it because he felt that just as much money will be spent for conservation purposes as before. More money will be spent rather than less, he said. However, he like this one proposed can give better service, and so he favored the bill.

The committee also took up the board of control merger bill, which combines the board of control, board of health, dairy and food commission, superintendent of weights and measures, oil inspection of ice and state treasury agent and creates a state board of public welfare to combine their various functions. Mr. Gilbert made the principal argument for this also, and advanced the same reasons why the merger should be put into effect.

The Morena will take on coal at Hampton Roads and sail for South America.

BOARD MERGE BILLS

HEAVY STEWARDSHIP

Friends of Measures Say Executive Power Will Eventually Rest in Hands of People's Choice.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., April 16.—Two bills for the creation of a state conservation commission were discussed all afternoon Thursday before the assembly state affairs committee. One originated with the joint investigating committee at this session, and the other was drafted by the special investigating committee on forestry of the last legislature, of which Axel Johnson, chairman of the state affairs committee, was secretary. Mr. Johnson exhibited a feeling at yesterday's hearing that the 1915 committee should have allowed the forestry committee's bill to go through. Both bills aid at consolidation of the offices of state fish and game warden, state fish commission, state park board, state board of forestry and state conservation commission.

Mr. Gilbert, attorney for the present investigating committee, who made the principal argument for its bill, offered to allow the forestry committee's bill to have the right of way, subject to amendment to incorporate the committee's ideas, and said his committee was willing that any credit for the consolidation go the prior body. STONE PILE MURDER

IS STILL BAFFLING

Bronx Police Still Unable to Solve Mystery Surrounding Death.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, April 16.—Renewed efforts made by the police today to solve the mystery surrounding the identity of the woman whose body was found under a pile of stone in a vacant lot in the Bronx last Saturday.

Not until yesterday when Mrs. Wm. H. Burk, formerly Miss Clara Hansbury, of Troy, New York, appeared at the Troy police station, did the New York police entertain much doubt that she was the woman who had been murdered. Mrs. Burk together with Carr of this city had previously identified the body as that of Miss Hansbury, her niece. Police Inspector Faurot sent men to Troy today to bring back the body of the woman. Thomas Hansbury, here today to view the body of the murdered woman.

Raffaello Villio, a contractor, was still in custody here charged with homicide, causing the woman's death, but stoutly denied that he knew her. He admitted, however, she looked like a woman he had known as Claudia, and whom he last saw five months ago.

SUBMARINE ATTACKS

French Ship Owner Urges Confiscation of German Boats Held in French Ports.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Paris, April 16.—N. Lagoules de Mezauban, president of the Brittany Ship Owners Association, has suggested that the ministry of marine replace each ship belonging to the allies sunk by German submarines with vessels of corresponding size from among the 275 German ships detained at French ports, since the beginning of the war. This M. de Mezauban believed would cause German ship owners to do their utmost to induce Emperor William to stop a step to this method of warfare, the cost of which was borne by them.

The proposal of M. de Mezauban has been taken into consideration by the French government, but before it can be put into action an arrangement must be reached with British authorities.

GERMANS PASS LAWS TO PREVENT WORKING OF WOMEN OF BELGIUM.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Brussels, April 16.—General von Bissing German governor of Belgium, has completed and put into effect a number of rules controlling the labor of women and children. The absence of so many men at the front has led to the constant danger that the women, in attempting to take their places, will do themselves harm by overworking.

The new rules permit children between the ages of 14 and 16, and women and children between 16 and 21, to work not longer than 12 hours a day. There must be a rest period of at least an hour and a half, and children under 16 years old are not permitted to work at all.

Women, regardless of age, and children are not allowed to work in mines, quarries, pits and the like. Night work is forbidden entirely to women. The maximum period of employment daily applies in households as well as in factories, shops and restaurants.

LONESOME RIFLEMAN

NOW GETS BIG MAIL.

London, April 16.—Rifeman A. C. White, who was described by a sentimental fellow soldier in a letter to a London paper as the loneliest man in the British army, has become the hero of the British army postal service. White was living in a hospital near the front, with no one to write to him or to send him presents. But after the pathetic day of his letter, an extra force of men had to be employed to handle and carry his mail. His letters have now passed the 3,000 mark, and his parcels are numbered by the hundreds. Every mail White draws a bigger bag than many companies.

CONSTRUCTION WORK IN CHICAGO HALTED
BY WAR ON UNIONS

Seventy-Five Thousand Men Idle as Result of Lockout and Strike of Building Trades.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Chicago, April 16.—Sixteen thousand union carpenters, striking for an increase of five cents an hour, were under the ban of a lockout order by their employers today. Painters, lathers, plasterers and sheet metal workers found themselves in similar circumstances and enough allied trades were affected to bring the total of idle men beyond 75,000.

The decision of sheet metal contractors to join the fight against the unions was a blow to the latter as the labor leaders had hoped that employers in that line would try to negotiate conditions which, by barring outside material, it was declared, gave to local concerns a monopoly on such work in this city.

While the action of the sheet metal contractors probably will open the gates for competition from outside communities, the more immediate effect will be to save the local employers the bonds they deposited to insure co-operation with employers of other trades. The metal men were fired moves that if they forfeited their bonds they would also lose any chance of contracts with members of the allied employers' association.

Work ceased on approximately 4,000 of 4,500 unfinished structures in the city. Watchmen were employed to keep close vigil over unfinished buildings and most of the employers announced their intention to employ non-union workmen in Chicago from other cities. The action of this kind probably will be taken by the contracting painters and decorators.

Victims already have been reported. Big automobiles carrying men armed with brass knuckles and black-jacks, appeared on the north side and several non-union men were beaten, according to reports from the north side. Pickets for union were posted at all down town work today.

MORAL REFORM DAY

FOR STATE SENATE

Upper House Votes to Kill Bill Which Would Make Mann Act Applicable Within State.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Madison, April 16.—Both houses labored well along in the afternoon today to clean up Friday and Saturday's calendar.

There was moral reform day in the upper house, many of the anti-vice committee measures being on the calendar. The senate advanced the bill aimed at pandering and attendance of women in the public service. It is sold and indecent exhibitions at fairs, and killed half a dozen others, among them the bill making the terms of the Mann act applicable to Wisconsin. The latter was opposed by senators Bennett, Burke and Fairchild.

Senator Burke observed that the people are drifting toward socialistic schemes in advocating such a measure. He said the committee's report was better than good; that the white slave situation debauched the public mind. "We have enough statutes on the books to take care of all these conditions," said Mr. Burke.

Senator Bray said roadhouses are a menace to Oshkosh. Senator Fairchild said conditions are being handled under existing laws. The bill was killed in accordance with committee recommendation.

The senate endorsed the Bennett bill providing for an amendment that the services of the medical staff of the university and the staff of the medical school shall be furnished only to regularly enrolled students.

Action on the Bennett bill limiting medical students to the two year course was deferred until next Thursday.

The Tompkins chiropractic bill and the Ackley optometrist bill went over until May five.

PROHIBITION OF VODKA

PREVENTED STARVATION OF PEOPLE IN POLAND

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, April 16.—The prohibition of the use of vodka in Russia saved the people of Poland from starvation by releasing for their use the enormous potato crops planted by the distillers. The potato output for the distillers was 100,000,000 bushels. Ernest P. Bicknell, who has just returned from Poland where he went on a tour of investigation for the Rockefeller Foundation War Relief Commission, said:

The greater part of the Russian potato crop was planted by the distillers for making vodka, and when the ukase of the Russian government was enacted this it was predicted that the phenomenal potato output of this year would be a dead loss to the growers. The best potato land in Russia is in Poland and the crop being gathered when von Hindenburg secured the services of the Rockefeller Foundation War Relief Commission.

In the course of which the country was laid waste for miles. Fortunately did little harm to the great stores of food which were stored away in the underground caches. This story now provides practically the staple food for the Poles, and those parts of Poland which raise no potatoes are being supplied by an effective system of distribution arranged by the Germans.

Mr. Nicholson needs no introduction to Janesville residents, as he spent a good share of his life in the River city. His subject has not been announced as yet, but it can be assured that Mr. Nicholson has an address worth while both to young and old.

Secretary Kline has arranged special music for the occasion. There will be a social and instrumental numbers on the program. Both men and boys are cordially invited to be in attendance.

EX-SENATOR ALDRICH IS CALLED BY DEATH

FORMER RHODE ISLAND SOLOMON SUCCEEDS TODAY TO HEART FAILURE AT NEW YORK HOME.

LED PARTY FOR YEARS

Held Seat in United States Senate for Thirty Years Where He Shaped Important Tariff and Currency Laws.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, April 16.—Nelson W. Aldrich, former United States senator from Rhode Island from 1881 to 1911, died at his home here today of heart disease.

Great Party Leader.

Probably the greatest parliamentarian that ever served in the senate, Mr. Aldrich had no difficulty in maintaining leadership of his party. Although known among the veterans as a "committee" senator, he was quite as much at home on the floor and naturally was more in evidence in the larger arena. While he gave special attention to the tariff and financial legislation in committee, on the senate floor his ear was open for all that was said on any subject of general importance. He seldom failed to participate in the discussion of any measure affecting governmental policies.

Naturally Mr. Aldrich's long-continued supremacy in the councils of his party and in directing legislation caused him to become the subject of much adverse criticism. He was charged with bossism and with being the responsibility for the tariff or not this was true in the measure can be said in fairness that some of these assertions gained and held currency because it was his policy never to defend himself against published attacks. He rarely defended himself to be quoted by the press.

The fact that his daughter was married to a son of John D. Rockefeller served to strengthen the popular impression that Senator Aldrich was in some way pecuniarily friendly to the so-called "Rockefeller interests." Yet when a friend of the senator once asked him if he was a Rockefeller, Mr. Rockefeller, Mr. Aldrich replied:

"As I have met Mr. Rockefeller only twice in my life I fear the letter would be of but little if any assistance to you."

Succeeds in Politics.

Born in Foster, R. I., Nov. 6, 1841, he first appeared in public life as a member of the common council in the city of Providence. He was elected to the Rhode Island assembly in 1875, and four years later, to congress.

After two sessions he was elected to the senate as successor of General Ambrose E. Burnside.

Having begun his career as a business man, Senator Aldrich continued throughout his public service to display business like methods and extraordinary capacity for organization. Upon his election to the senate

Hall & Huebel

Cathedral's Vicissitudes.—St. Paul's cathedral of London has had a strange association with fire. The first edifice on the present site was erected in 610 by Ethelbert, king of Kent, but in 1087 this was destroyed by fire. Finally in 1666, when the great fire devastated most of London, St. Paul's was wrecked, the burning the fifth fire. In 1875 the present church was built by Charles II at a cost of more than $7,500,000.

CAP AND GOWN WILL BE WORN BY SENIORS

1915 GRADUATING CLASS AT JANESVILLE HIGH SCHOOL. FAVORS CHANGE AT MEETING.

PLAN TO ECONOMIZE

Costumes Will Be Gray Instead of Black, And Will Be Rented for Entire Week—Commencement Plans.

The cap and gown will be worn at the Janesville high school 1915 commencement exercises in June for the first time in the school's history. At a meeting of the senior class, held yesterday afternoon, the motion was unanimously passed upon, after arguments were heard pro and con for a week, and the matter thoroughly discussed.

The argument that perhaps led to the induction of the new idea, now being commonly used in the Chicago high schools, and throughout Illinois, was that of economy. By renting these costumes for a week, at two dollars per cap and gown, the students will be even more exempt from following the usual custom of buying gorgeous gowns or suits, which has been the case in former years. The idea of one student trying to outdo another, will be done away with, and with the cap and gown it is believed that a more democratic method has been reached. One argument against the cap and gown idea for graduation, is that it is an attempt to ape the colleges of the country. To counteract this thought, the gray cap and gown has been introduced in high and prep schools. The gray cap is identical to the black one, but the gown varies as to style. Instead of being pointed sleeves, the gray gown has round ones, in addition to the general style being somewhat different.

The problem of saving is the greatest one in favor of the new costume. As the gown covers the entire person from the neck down to the feet, it is necessary for a senior graduating to buy new clothes of any kind. In fact, the price of graduation to a student, in reality, is but two dollars.

Each individual senior will receive his or her costume in a separate box, clean and free from infection. Before shipping, the suits will be scalded and pressed and will be made perfectly sanitary.

The graduating seniors will wear the cap and gown at the pageant, at the musical night and at commencement night. The outlook at present is that the members of the present senior class will be given diplomas in June, which number makes up one of the largest classes ever graduated at the local institution, outnumbering the 1914 class by ten.

Commencement Plans. Although Miss Abel has made no definite plans for the commencement pageant, it is understood that the program of the open air exercises will be much different than last year. An open air play is the idea favored, and it is likely that this new plan will be put in volume as the big opening commencement exercises.

A musical program, similar to the one given last June, will be prepared by Miss Emily Sewell, city musical instructor. The third big event will come on commencement or graduation night, when the orations, essays, and other numbers will be given. With the new cap and gown adding a little dignity to the annual graduation exercises, it is expected that the exercises will be far more interesting and attractive than in the past.

JANESVILLE ACTORS IN TOYSHOP TONIGHT

St. Mary's Church Production Will Be Seen at Myers—Big House Is Assured.

An all star Janesville cast will be seen tonight at the Myers Theatre. This is the date of "Fl Fl of the Toyshop," produced under the auspices of St. Mary's church.

The final dress rehearsal was held last evening. Every part was exceptionally well taken and an excellent display of amateur acting will be seen this evening. The rehearsal was the result of careful and patient training on the part of A. C. Meyer, who is directing the play, and the part of members of the cast.

A heavy box sale is reported, which is indicative that a large house will greet the performance this evening.

Musical Program.
Song—Take Me Back to Babyland—Bo Peep.
Song—"Bonnie's Boots"—Sandman.
Dance—Jumping Jack.
Dance—The China Dolls.
Sextette—Nursery Rhymes—Fl Fl, Captain, Looney, Prince, Ink Spot and Tin Head.
Song—"The Owl and the Pussy Cat"—Bo Peep and Animals.
Dance—"The Paper Dolls."

Duet—"My Toy Love"—Fl Fl and Tin Head.
Song—"Honeybee's Honeymoon"—Bo Peep and Fairies.
Dance of the Bridesmaids.
Wedding March—Entire Company.
Song—"Slumber Boat"—Sandman and Entire Company.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Eva Hall.—Mrs. Eva Hall, nee Johnson, widow of the late James B. Hall, died in Chicago, Wednesday evening, April 14, 1915, at the residence of her son, H. O. Hall, 27 N. State street. Remains will be brought to Janesville early Saturday morning April 17, and taken to Oak Hill chapel. Rev. Hazen will conduct services.

Mrs. Hall was born in Haddered, Sweden, July 13, 1833, and came to Janesville in 1865, living here continuously until last October when she came to Chicago.

Besides her two sons, Henry O. and John O., of Chicago, two daughters, Mrs. Mary L. Walker of Janesville and Mrs. Clara B. Howell of Bwyn, Ill. One brother, Joseph Johnson, and one sister, Mrs. Christine Sward, both of Chicago, she leaves a host of friends who will mourn her demise. Mrs. Hall was a member of the Swedish Lutheran church and was confirmed in the parish church at Gubred, Sweden, June 20, 1849.

JULIAN W. HINCKLEY BURIED IN OAK HILL

Services for Former Captain of Third Wisconsin Regiment Held This Afternoon—Relatives Here.

The last funeral rites for the late Captain Julian W. Hinckley, who died in St. Paul Tuesday evening, were held this afternoon at the grave at Oak Hill cemetery. Rev. Joseph Chalmers Hazen of the First Baptist church giving the prayer, with the members of the W. H. Sargent Post, G. A. R., taking charge of the remainder of the services.

Comrade E. O. Kimberley rendered a vocal selection in addition to giving a short talk concerning the deceased. Six members of the 3rd Wisconsin Regiment acted as pallbearers. They are: Peter Graves, W. B. Smith and E. G. Rose of Beloit; S. W. Traber of Platteville, and E. O. Kimberley and J. F. Carle of this city.

The remains arrived this morning at six o'clock from St. Paul over the Northwestern road, and were taken to the Kimball morgue until this afternoon. Those from out of the city attending the services this afternoon were: Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Plank of Minneapolis; Messdames L. D. Hinckley, Wilson and Merriman of Waukegan; Messdames Louise Hinckley and H. V. Palmer of Freeport, Minn.; M. E. Hinckley of Mt. Vernon, Iowa.

Mrs. John Palmer.—The funeral of Mrs. John Palmer was held this morning at 9:30 at the St. Mary's church in Milton Junction. Father James J. McGinnity celebrating high mass and delivering the sermon. Interment was made in Mt. Olivet cemetery in the city.

Mrs. Elizabeth Campbell.—Funeral services for Mrs. Elizabeth Campbell were held yesterday morning at ten o'clock at St. Patrick's church. The pallbearers were: D. Gunn, Joseph Shingler, William Finnane, Mike Finley, Peter McCue and Patrick Tracey. Interment was in Mt. Olivet cemetery.

Mrs. Albert E. Ellis.—Funeral services for Mrs. Albert E. Ellis will be held Saturday afternoon at 2:30 at the St. Peter's English Lutheran church. Rev. E. C. Hoffmeister officiating. Interment in Oak Hill cemetery.

THREE YOUNG LADIES GIVE DINNER THURSDAY FOR MARGARET ALLEN

Miss Wilma Soverhill, Jessie Pruner, and Sara Alice Garb, gave a dinner at the Soverhill home on North Washington street Thursday, in honor of Miss Margaret Allen.

The colors of the elaborate decorations were in red and green, a huge basket of red roses and similar gracing the center of the table. The place cards were concealed, which were souvenirs for each guest. At Miss Allen's place was a tower of flowers in green and white, in which a bride stood waiting for the tying of the nuptial knot. The tables were lighted with candles, with red shades.

A four course dinner was served. After the dinner a serving screen was presented to Miss Allen by the eighteen guests that were present. Each person having some article that was contained in the gift.

JOE REITZ BEFORE COURT ON INTOXICATION CHARGE

Joe Reitz, a cobbler, was again in court this morning on the charge of being intoxicated last night. His case was adjourned until April 19th, as the court ruled he was not sober enough to make a plea to the charge. He was committed to the county jail.

The case of John Pierson was dismissed by Judge Maxfield. Pierson awaited his examination for drunkenness.

Clarence "Clement" Simmons was arraigned in court yesterday afternoon for first offense drunkenness. His case was adjourned to the 32nd. It is claimed by the police that Simmons recently completed serving a year in Waupun for second offense drunkenness and his right name is Clement instead of Clarence.

Couldn't See Use of It. At a town meeting a large taxpayer rose up to protest against building a new school house in a certain part of the town. "What's the good of it? They are an ignorant set down there anyway."

CARDINALS PROMISE TO CLOSE SEASON WITH WIN

Tonight at nine o'clock, when the Lacota Cardinals and Co. E. five of Fond du Lac take the floor for the first time in the history of the state, the Lacotas will be in the game to defeat the northerners by as big a score as possible. Defeat is an untalked of accident among the Cardinals, who seek revenge for the allocation made by Fond du Lac that the Lacotas are "fake" champs. The Janesville five are prepared for a rough game as the visitors are skilled in these tactics.

PETEY DINK—SIMPLY THE UNKINDEST CUT OF ALL

By C. A. VOIGHT

FOUR NEW MANAGERS START SEASON

New York, April 15.—With another season of baseball on its jubilant way, speculation is rife as to what the season has in store for the big league teams.

It is a new experience for Manager McGraw to start the season as just an ordinary member of the ranks. His clubs are usually leaders. The Giants this year have one ambition, and that is to win back the honors that Boston took from them in such spectacular fashion last season. From present indications, it looks as if the Braves were just as good and even better than they were last season. If Sherwood Magee comes up to the standard expected of him, he will be a big help in bringing another pennant to Boston. Much also depends on Johnny Evers. Evers, after the world's series, had a severe illness, which may or may not have an effect on his work during the coming season. However, it is a well-known fact that Evers' work with the Boston last season was the principal factor in the club's success. With Evers and Magee "right" Boston has a glorious chance of repeating.

Giants Strengthened.

In strengthening the New York club, Manager McGraw has got another star pitcher in "Poli" Peritt and an experienced capable third baseman in Hans Lobert. With this added strength, McGraw also expects to see the batting of Larry Doyle and Chief Meyers assume its former strength. Left Tressau should be at the top of the pitching form during the coming year, and McGraw also puts much trust in the ability of Rube Marquard to show again.

Brooklyn showed marked improvement in the south this season and if the team does not get a good start it will not be because it has not been brought to the top form of condition by Manager Robinson. The pitching staff of the Dodgers is stronger than last season, and with the batting strength that the club possesses Brooklyn should finish higher up in the race than at any time during the last few seasons.

Cubs Look Strong.

A club which is sure to be an important factor in the National League race this year is the Chicago Cubs, with its new manager, Roger Bresnahan. This is not Bresnahan's first managerial experience. He was at the helm in St. Louis a few seasons ago and proved his right to be called a capable manager. Under him the Cubs have taken a wonderful turn this spring and the experts predict that the Cubs will show something like their former greatness when the race gets under way.

Another new manager in the National league is Pat Moran of the Phillies. Radical changes have taken place on the Phillies. Harmony has been restored, and Moran has inaugurated a different system of playing. The Phillies, under his guidance, have started in on an era of smart ball playing and the result will be watched with interest. The short field will have a player in young Bancroft of whom great things are expected. Around Alexander, perhaps the most reliable pitcher in the National league, Moran has built up a strong pitching staff.

Experiment Changes.

Cincinnati have all made changes which will be more or less experimental. Much younger playing talent has been brought to the front, all of which will tend to make this season more uncertain and interesting.

The American league has also introduced two new managers in Bill Donovan of the Yankees and Clarence Rowland of the White Sox. Under the new conditions of a different leadership the Yankees are expected to have a new lease on life. For the last year, Donovan's experience will be more or less experimental, but in the preliminary games the Yankees team has shown a more ambitious spirit and willingness to accomplish something more than they did last season. The Yankees are sure to show improvement, but just how much will not be known until the season is well under way. The pitching staff as it stands ranks well with the others in the league. In its defense, the Yankee team is all that could be wished, but the weakness, if any, will be in the pitching. The addition of High and Pipp may go a great way in bettering this weakness.

Collins Big Help to Sox.

In Clarence Rowland, President Comiskey of the White Sox, has chosen a young man untried in major league experience. The addition of Eddie Collins to the Sox should prove of inestimable worth. This club, too, has great pitching talent and with the aid of Collins it is expected by many that the Chicago Americans will be an important factor in the race for the flag. The Athletics, stripped of so much valuable talent as Collins, Baker, Plank and Bender, is not taken too seriously in calculating the possible pennant winner during the present season. Mack will have much recruiting to do, and it may take a few seasons to bring his young talent up to the Athletics' standard.

The American league team which promises great possibilities this season is the Boston Red Sox. This club made a finish in last year's race that showed that it played better ball than any of the teams of either league. It was so late in getting started, however, that all chances for a pennant were lost. It has a hard-hitting infield, which is one of the necessities for a pennant winner. The outfield with the reliable Tris Speaker as the leading swatman, will drive in many a run during the coming season.

FEW PROFESSIONAL FOOTBALL PLAYERS ANSWER COLOR CALL.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, April 16.—Only 122 professional football players out of some 1,800 in the league teams have enlisted in the Football Battalion, which was organized for the express purpose of bringing this class of professional athletes to the colors and of breaking up a sport which is supposed to have a bad effect on the recruiting campaign.

"The laxity of football professionals and their following has amounted to almost a public scandal," states the battalion. "I am aware of the fact that in many cases directors and managers of clubs have not only given no assistance in getting these men to join, but have done their best by their actions to prevent it. I will no longer be a party to shielding the want of patriotism of these men by allowing the public to think they have joined the Football Battalion."

WILD PITCHES TURN TIDE AGAINST CHICAGO NATIONALS

Chicago, April 16.—A wild spell of pitching in the third inning tossed away the game for the Cubs in their second clash with the St. Louis Cardinals by a score of 4 to 2. Cheney lost control of the ball in the climax session and heaved two runs across the plate. Standridge, a recruit, was sent in and wild pitch after wild pitch proved plenty for the Cardinals.

Sox In Rampage.

St. Louis, April 16.—The rejuvenated Sox pounded the lowly Browns for sixteen runs by a 16 to 0 victory in a game which was a real test for the Browns. Gave way to Perryman with Bumgarner taking the slab the last three rounds.

New York April 16.—Rube Marquard, the double jumper, celebrated his return to the New York Giants by pitching a no-hit game against Brooklyn, winning 2 to 0. Rucker, the left hander, hooked up with Marquard in a pitching duel. On the third men reached first on the New York slab, two on base on balls and one on an error by Fletcher. Marquard struck out but two men and the sensational fielding work of the Giants pulled him through. Lefty is showing great work for the Giants on third.

INDOOR TRACK MEET AT OSHKOSH NORMAL TO ALL STATE SCHOOLS.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Oshkosh, Wis., April 16.—The first annual indoor track meet of the Oshkosh Normal school will be held here tonight. In former years the meet was limited to schools in the northeastern section of the state, but this year invitations were extended to all schools in the state. The winners in each event receive loving cups while cups will also be awarded for first, second and third individual honors. Silver and bronze medals will be given for second and third places in each event. A blanket pennant will be given to the school and also to the winner of the relay.

NEWARK IS BASEBALL MAD AT CELEBRATION FOR BIG LEAGUE BALL.

(By Hal Sheridan.)

Newark, April 16.—The Federal League "outlaws" enjoyed another celebration today. A post-season "opening" celebration was on today at Pat Powers' Pepper Park, the new home of the new Federal League team here.

All Newark was baseball "mad" today. The fans were on edge for their first taste of big league baseball. A "dollar dinner" last night, at which speeches were made by Powers, Ward and other Federal magnates, keyed up fandom to new enthusiasm today. A big street parade with Manager B. Phillips leading the new team, ushered in the Fed season.

Cy Falkenberg was slated by Phillips to pitch the opening game this afternoon. President Gilmore of the Fed League was due to arrive to "consecrate" the new park with appropriate ceremonies. Billy Sunday, baseball evangelist, was also a special guest invited for the opening. The Baltimore team was Newark's foe this afternoon.

Another opening game of the Fed circuit was held today at Buffalo, with the Brooklyn Tip Tops. The western switch tomorrow, Chicago playing the first home game, at St. Louis and Kansas City at Pittsburgh.

BELOIT HAS A WESTON WHO PLANNING TOUR TO WESTERN STATES.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Beloit, Wis., April 16.—John Wellby, head commissioner of this city, will start on a 2,500 mile trip to the continent in July. A portion of his tour will be made over the Lincoln highway and he expects to reach San Francisco well within two weeks. While on the tour he will inspect the agricultural sections of Washington and Oregon.

MORRIS MILLER

Rube Oldring, who is temporarily filling Frank Baker's shoes at third base for the Athletics, is making good. Though Baker has been playing the outfield for several years, he seems able to fill the infield position in a very satisfactory manner, and should Baker remain on his farm it is not unlikely that Connie Mack will allow the Rube to remain at third.

Until Jess Willard heard of Johnson's story over Jeffries he took no interest in the fighting game. But with the defeat of Jeffries he got to thinking that it was the duty of some big white man to bring the title back to his race, and he concluded to try his hand. Though a promoter, Carl Morris, at that time a prominent white hope, and he made arrangements to box with him. It was in these workouts that he got his knowledge of the game and he continued to stick to it until he grew stronger and more expert, with the one ambition that the time might come when he could take the title from Johnson. Willard had a lot of confidence in himself when he made the match.

with Johnson, and this fact undoubtedly did much to make him the winner.

Manager Moran of the Phillies has released infielder Jack Martin to St. Paul of the American Association. Martin was the regular short stop on the Phillies at the close of the 1914 season, but Dave Bancroft has crowded him out of the job.

Manager Stallings modestly declared at a Macon barbecue that he would make no pennant prediction for the world's champions, but that the Braves would never be beaten without a contest this season.

"When I first arrived on the Pacific coast," says Joe Levy, the fight promoter, "the old Chicago club, then managed by Frank Selee, was training, and with them was a skinny youngster who was trying in a feeble way to play the infield. He was worried and discouraged; said he didn't think he was quite ripe for the big league, and asked Selee to leave him on the coast so he could get a year's added experience. Selee consented, and offered him to the Los Angeles club. Los Angeles refused him, asserting that the kid was about Class Z, 23 quality; so Selee took him back east—and his name was Evers."

Sam Crawford may be pressed into service as a first baseman according to reports from Detroit. Hughie Jennings isn't at all satisfied with Marty Kavanagh's showing with the stick and has informed Kavy that some one else will be tried out in George Burns' shoes unless his work picks up quickly. Jennings says Crawford or Jacobson, also an outfielder, ought to be able to fill in acceptably at the initial sack.

Frank Baker of home-run fame, is making good to date and tending to his farm at Macon. But it is figured that his crops will be planted by the time the season opens and that he will then report to Uncle Connie. That is what they hope in the home of the Mackman, and yet Baker may upset calculations and remain at his home. Perhaps if he does he will have the pleasure of enjoying another visit from Mack, who undoubtedly is prominent in the race the coming season would be rather solemn should Franklin decide to remain at Trappe, Md., this summer.

EMETINE cures PYORRHEA

The Discovery of a Decade.
Pyorrhea has recently been shown by Professors Barrett and Smith, of the University of Pennsylvania, to be an anemic infection for which they have demonstrated EMETINE to be specific. This finding has been confirmed by Professors Bass and Johns of Tulane University, New Orleans. It is thus a Godsend to those who suffer with, and those who suffer from this distressing condition. Brilliant results are being secured.

WORK ON INTERURBAN TO BE STARTED SOON

CONTRACTS HAVE BEEN LET FOR MADISON TO JANESVILLE LINE, SAYS MANAGER.

ROUTE IS INDICATED

Commencing on North Bluff Street
Railroad Will Cross Towns of Janesville and Fulton in Rock County.

Following the granting of a certificate of convenience and necessity to the Chicago and Wisconsin Valley railroad to build an electric line between Madison and Janesville, as issued by the railroad commission on Thursday, comes the announcement of the Chicago and Wisconsin Valley railroad company that the company has accepted the contract for financing and constructing the road have been let and that work will be started soon. The company is authorized by the action of the commission to construct the road as follows:
"Commencing on Bluff street at or near the viaduct of the Chicago and Northwestern Railway Company and Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway Company in the city of Janesville, and extending thence northward through the towns of Janesville, Fulton, Albion, Dunkirk, Pleasant Springs, Dunn, Blooming Grove, Elchburg and Madison to the corporate limits of the city of Madison, and thence through the towns of Middleton, Springfield, Perry, Roxbury and Prairie du Sac, and through Sauk City and the city of Prairie du Sac to the intersection of Sixth avenue and Prairie street in the city of Prairie du Sac, all in the counties of Dane and Sauk."

The provisions of the certificate do not extend to nor cover the character of the crossings of the proposed line of railroad with existing railroads or highways. The kind and nature of such crossings, whether at grade or otherwise are to be determined by the commission at such time as the applicant applies for approval of its plans and specifications, and for permission to construct its line and for road, at which time and upon due notice to be given all parties in interest, the commission will hear and determine all such reserve questions. The company some time ago was given a certificate authorizing it to build a road between Madison and Janesville, where the company is already operating a city line.

The Janesville-Madison line will be constructed first according to statements of the company's officials made at Madison.

Time of Drought.

MORE ABOUT AMERICAN HUSBANDS.

A foreigner who was commenting on American customs said that the thing which struck him as the most remarkable about our country was the way in which the husbands entered into their wives' lives instead of taking the wives into theirs.

It is true, isn't it, when you stop to think of it? The wife takes the husband's name. The husband takes the wife's friends.

On Paper Versus in Life.

In on-paper discussions of marriage you hear a good deal said about the wife entering a new life, leaving behind her old friends and taking her husband's, but when you turn to real life you find that if anybody drops old friends it is likely to be the wife.

Let a group of girls who have been chums, marry. The husbands may have never seen each other before but they soon find themselves friends (by necessity in the lesser sense of the word; by good fortune plus necessity in the greater).

Try the shoe on the other foot. When two or three men friends marry do their wives really become friends? Far from it.

I have in mind at the moment two women who were college chums. Their husbands had never met before the engagements. They are now each the other's closest friend, if you take friend in the sense of intimate and companion.

"We Haven't Anything in Common."

Now the husband of one of these girls had a very close man friend before he was married. Yet this man's friend's wife are only on formal calling terms. They don't dislike each other. Oh no. "But we really have nothing in common," says the woman in the case.

The old theory was that the wife became part of the husband's family but in most of the cases I know the husband became a part of the wife's family.

"A daughter's a daughter throughout her whole life." "A son's a son till he gets him a wife."

Never were truer words written in proverb than that.

Nor can you wonder that a mother may love her son just as much as her daughter; in fact she may feel a greater pride in her man-child, a sense of mysterious triumph in being the mother of one of the "manly" boys, but after all the bonds of companionship and congeniality will probably be stronger between her and her daughter.

Besides, when the daughter takes her place in a home of her own, she is a beginner in her mother's business. What wonder that they should have many points of contact. Whereas, unless the son happens to be in business with his father, he has no such bond with his family.

It is a favorite statement that the American husband is the most indulgent in the world. If he is to be judged by the complaisance with which he permits his wife to determine the social relationships of the two he certainly is.

I wonder, though, is it wholly because he is more complaisant than foreign husbands or partly because social relationships mean less to him and business more?

One summer day Miss Julia Jay remarked, "It is a sin when it's so lovely out of doors that we have to stay in."

"I'll tell you what I'll dare you all to do right now," said she. "Let's lock the school house door, and then let's hide the school house key."

The children said, "That will be fun; let's do it right away!" But which of us will hide the key? "I will," said Julia Jay. "I'll put it in the branches of the very tallest tree."

Professor Crab will never think of looking there," said she.

They ran right quick and locked the door and gave Miss Julia Jay the key, which she took in her bill, and gaily flew away. And as the children all stood there a laughing fit to kill, they saw that old Professor Crab was coming up the hill.

Said he, "Good morning, children; what is this fuss about?" "We can't have any school today," said they, "because we are locked out." "Oh no," said Professor Crab, as calmly as could be, "We'll go to school as usual; I have an extra key."

And sure enough that sly old Crab unlocked the door with ease. "It's well, in case of accident," said he, "to have another key. But how the other key was lost, I do not know," said he. "Unless perhaps" (and here he smiled) "it flew up in a tree."

Miss Julia Jay heard every word the old Professor said. For she was sitting in a tree directly overhead. Her bill flew open with surprise; the key fell to the ground. "Ah, ha," said good Professor Crab, "the missing key is found."

"And now," remarked Professor Crab, "you may all go inside. And you, Miss Julia Jay, come down, you need not try to hide. I have a bit of extra work for you to do," said he. "You must stay one hour after school and practice writing KEY."

Thought Julia Jay, "I don't believe I care much for this joke; I didn't go as far as planned; I'm sorry that I spoke; But I won't try another trick," declared Miss Julia Jay; And, furthermore, she's kept her word, I'm very glad to say.

Household Hint

COOKIES.

Nut Cookies—Mix together one scant cup shortening and two cups sugar (light brown preferred), add two eggs, four tablespoons sour milk in which dissolve soda, two and one-half cups rolled oats, two and one-half cups flour sifted with one teaspoon cinnamon. Mix well and let stand over night. The next morning roll out and bake as other cookies.

Baker's Cookies—Two tin cups sugar, one-half tin cup lard, one-fourth tin cup sour cream, three-fourths tin cup sweet milk, four eggs, one scant teaspoon soda, two heaping teaspoons baking powder, flour enough to make a soft dough. This is a very large recipe, but can easily be divided and only half of the recipe used by taking a cup to measure the ingredients instead of a tin cup, and using only two eggs.

Oatmeal Drop Cakes—One cup sugar, one-half cup shortening, one-half cup butter, one cup rolled oats, two cups flour, one cup chopped raisins, two eggs, one teaspoon soda dissolved in buttermilk.

"No for 'GETS-IT' When I Have Corns" everything when you've sat up nights wrapping up your toes in bandages, smearing on salves that rub off or swell up the corn, putting on cotton plaster that make corns pop and burn, and then your toes with razors, jabbing them with scissors—and then you put on "GETS-IT" and see your corn fall right off—why it just looks like a miracle. Just try it. "GETS-IT" never fails. No pain, no trouble. Use it for any corn, callus, wart or bunion.

serves or jam, bake and serve with spoonful of whipped cream on each. Cinnamon Rolls—Roll crust thin, spread with melted butter, sprinkle with sugar, then cinnamon—commence at edge and roll, one of in rounds about one-fourth inch thick, and bake.

Marshmallow Truffles—Cut crust in squares, press four marshmallows on each square, cover with another square and bake.

Nut Crusties—Cut crusts in rounds, sprinkle with ground nuts, cover with round, place two-half nuts on top, bake in hot oven.

SODA HAS MANY USES.

A teaspoonful of soda and eight drops of carbolic acid; put in a cup and fill with boiling water. When it is cool enough this is an excellent throat gargle and good for nasal catarrh.

Soda is a fine tooth powder. Keep a jar of soda with a little toothbrush. After wetting the brush, dip into soda and brush teeth; rinse with water. It preserves teeth and keeps them free from tartar.

Often people could save a trip to the doctor if they would take a half teaspoonful of soda, pour on some peppermint essence, put into the mouth and drink some water to wash the soda down.

For the bath water soda is most excellent. It softens the water and cleanses the skin. Use a tablespoonful (rounding) to every half gallon of water. And more soda when one has been perspiring.

Use a tablespoonful of soda in a quart of water to rinse the bowels when necessary.

In place of baking powder, use one level teaspoon of soda and two level teaspoons of cream of tartar to a pint or two cups of flour.

Soda can be used to soften water for dishwashing; can be used to whiten clothes, same as borax.

When dressing a chicken or any fowl, after the feathers are off and the hair singed wet a cloth in warm water, put on a spoonful of soda and rub the chicken all over and see how it cleanses the skin; then wash in warm water.

SUBMARINES RIDING THE COIFFED HEADS

Newest Thing in Hatwear in War

Crazed London is a Craft Little Bonnet Named Submarine.

By Margaret Mason.

A new hat is the submarine. A shipshape hat it is I ween. Yet inconsistent it behaves—It always rests above the waves.

London, April 8.—by mail to New York—Ye ho! there, my heeries! There's a crafty little new chapeau in the sort of fashion. Though it's dubbed the submarine, it's really to be submerged and partly rides the crests of sleek coiffed heads and nestles snugly atop the Marcel waves of all the smartest dressers.

In its original form it is a close fitting elongated turban (not turbans) of tube straw in a Bordeaux color with an astonishingly long cross algrette jutting up almost perpendicularly. As the algrette is made of straw, the others of the moment is worn rakishly tilted well down over the right eye it brings the algrette to a most distressing angle for unfortunate adjacent fellow beings.

It gets one of its reason for being christened in honor of an undersea destroyer.

Another new hat is the pansy bonnet. Shakespearian, the phelias said pansies were for thought; so the modern maid whose only and every thought is for fashion says pansies are for hats and there they are.

Wonderfully realistic, because they are of nature's most piquant flower and they bloom in purple profusion around the tiny toques and turbans in purple and shade de nigré black straws for wear with street and informal costumes.

One adorable model of mauve toned taupe is of the tiny and elongated shape of the submarine. It has a soft crown of the same toned satin and banding its brimless outline are exquisite pansies shading from deepest velvety purple and white to light lavender with an occasional little sunny yellow faced one peering out coquettishly.

Algrettes flourish with undiminished vigor on this side of the water. What on the left side of the world more or less matter in countries where human life is at present being sacrificed so ruthlessly.

Every hat that does not bloom with pansies sprouts a little of some form or other. No wonder the algrettes are usually "cross."

The extremely inadequate evening gowns have been appropriately christened "silly" gowns after all there is something in a name. In this case much more than is in the dress. The three tiered skirts that are also the white of the moment are called "The Allies" and some go so far as to show a tiny embroidered flag of the three nations one each embroidered on a tier. There is really a touch of olden glory in almost everything and designs of colored and white are having their ornate effect on many of the newest model frocks. Beaded bags are playing a return date but the reason they are made of larger wooden beads is that the trial of grey, taupe or black and white.

Perhaps under the head of beads come the earrings now dangling from some of our very best ears? They are simply a sphere of clouded amber, twisting from a slender appendage by a slender golden chain. Of course other semi-precious stones are used to form the spheres and different color schemes are obtained with beads of jade, lapis lazuli and jet or crystal. It is the yellow touch of the needed is to be heeled in brightest hues. Red heels, green heels, white heels and silver heels add bright flashes of color under the abbrevia-

ARRANGE YOUR KITCHEN AS A MAN COOK WOULD HAVE IT.

Probably nothing can save more steps and fatigue than a compact arrangement of the cooking utensils, by placing them in the work table, drawers and in the wall cabinet, which should be as near the table as possible. This arrangement is insisted on by all chefs and man cooks in perfectly arranged hotel and club kitchens, as they know how to reduce cooking to a science and do it methodically without waste of energy. The model kitchen should be completely equipped with utensils. Do not use breakable articles. Buy an outfit of tin, granite or porcelain, and thereby save expense and the nickel and broken things too often seen. Have a zinc top to your working table because hot dishes will always stick to the usual white cloth.

When a task is unpleasant to a housekeeper, let her try to get one of the latest devices for doing that work. A heavy mitten will protect the hand when blackening the stove and the dreaded duty. A new hairbrush with bristles cut to a point makes the sweeping of coiled stairs easier. There are sink brushes and ash sifters, and many other contrivances that help to lighten labor. A dishwasher and a clothes washer are valuable labor-saving devices.

MADE OF LEFTOVER PIE CRUST

Fruit Tarts—Roll pie crust, cut in rounds, turn up edges, fill with preserved or jam, bake and serve with spoonful of whipped cream on each. Cinnamon Rolls—Roll crust thin, spread with melted butter, sprinkle with sugar, then cinnamon—commence at edge and roll, one of in rounds about one-fourth inch thick, and bake.

Marshmallow Truffles—Cut crust in squares, press four marshmallows on each square, cover with another square and bake.

Nut Crusties—Cut crusts in rounds, sprinkle with ground nuts, cover with round, place two-half nuts on top, bake in hot oven.

Glimpses of Married Life

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

The family carriage containing Father and Mother Morton drove down the lane on the way to church, in spite of the fact that the thermometer registered the greatest heat of the season.

Nothing short of a cyclone would have kept the old lady from church. There was no grass between the fields and the road and the long rows of corn stood withering in the parching heat. A sudden breeze rustled the dry leaves of the cottonwood and struck the cheek like a blast from a furnace.

The husband, bare and empty in the quivering heat. Suddenly in front of them from a neighbor's yard, a shambled an old white horse, on his back sat a barefoot boy in blue overalls. He stopped whistling as they approached him and drew up his stem by pulling on his manly beard.

"Morning!" He touched the wide brim of his straw hat, out of the broken top of which protruded a shock of red hair.

"I was just riding over to your place to take a letter from father Friday. He had it in his pocket and forgot to send it over." He said he hoped it was nothing important.

The old man took the letter, then clasped the lines between his knees while he fumbled for his glasses. When they were adjusted he read: "Mrs. Richard Morton: Oh, that's Dick's wife; she is at the house. Would you mind taking it over there?"

"Sure, I'll take it over," and the boy reached for the letter, slipped the mare's flank with his palm and urged the ancient animal into an awkward trot.

"Well, and Dick had wandered from place to place, trying to find a comfortable spot and were in the hammock under the apple tree when the old horse ambled up the lane.

"Why can't it be from me? I do not know the handwriting," said Nell as she tore open the envelope and drew out two letters. Opening one, she read:

"Dear Mrs. Morton: I am taking the liberty of sending the enclosed letter as it nearly concerns you. It was found in Miss Rudolph's wastebasket by Mrs. Brown's maid. She gave it to my maid, knowing that you are my friend, my maid very properly brought it to me.

"You did not choose to heed my friendly warning, but you can no longer refuse to believe the truth. Your friend and well wisher, Anna Ellison."

The other letter was a crumpled scrap of paper in a round, girlish hand. Nell read:

"Dear Chum: Your interesting letter telling of the conquest of the handsome young Dick came Saturday. I never would dare carry on a flirtation right under a wife's nose. Believe me, it's dangerous. You say the young man is devoted to you, dare not be seen with you because of the talk, so the daily walks are abandoned. Do be careful! I knew a girl who lost her reputation because of a conquest. I never flirt with a married man."

Nell looked at Dick. He was solemnly lying back in the hammock smoking.

"Read that!" she commanded, throwing the letters at him and starting for the house almost on a run.

man who is going to be surprised. What would you advise in this case? (2) Would it be right for a young man to go to see another man's girl? The first young man is engaged to be married and the girl is also engaged to be married. Both the fiancés live at a distance.

(1) If there is any chance that the young lady will feel slighted, ask her.

(2) I should think it would be just the thing for both of them if the fiancés don't object.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: There was a young man who lived in this city who was always smiled at me when we met. I liked him very much and have reason to think that he liked me as well. But we were never introduced because I was too young to go out with boys. This had been known for over a year and he seldom went with any other girls. Now he has left this town to work in a bigger city. What do you think he meant by his actions?

Nothing. He probably smiled at you because he found that you did not resent it.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of twenty. I have been keeping company with a young man for a year and he has been very faithful until lately. A short time ago he met another woman and now he pays her more attention than he does me. What would you advise me to do? I know the woman who makes trouble for me. Would you speak to her about it?

Make yourself as attractive as possible and don't show jealousy. I would not go to the woman, because she would only tell the man about it. This would show that you are afraid of losing him, the worst possible thing.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am going to ask a few teachers over for supper some evening. What would be nice to serve, something not too expensive?

What could we do to pass the evening away? RACHEL.

AMERICAN HAS CODE OF GERMAN LAWS FOR PROVINCES OF BELGIUM.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

The Hague, April 16.—Dr. C. H. Huberich, former acting dean of the law school of Leland Stanford, Jr. University and now practicing in the various prize courts of Europe, has coded the German civil laws enacted for the government of the occupied provinces of Belgium. The new code is published in Dutch, German, French and English. The work of codification was rendered extremely hard by the difficulty of obtaining necessary data, but through his Berlin connections Dr. Huberich managed to secure the official texts of the new laws. The ordinary ordinances of Belgium regulating the behavior of the people have not been that the foreign and domestic commerce of the country can be supervised strictly by the German authorities.

Don't Hide Them With a Veil; Remove Them With the Othine Prescription.

This prescription for the removal of freckles was written by a prominent physician and is usually so successful in removing freckles and giving a clear, beautiful complexion that it is sold by Badger Drug Co., or any druggist, under guarantee to refund the money if it fails.

Don't hide your freckles under a veil; get an ounce of Othine and remove them. Even the first few applications should show a wonderful improvement, some of the lighter freckles vanishing entirely.

Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength Othine; it is this that is sold on the money-back guarantee.

Kayser Silk Gloves

wear so much better

The very foundation of the Kayser Gloves—the Kayser Silk—is pure and strong. Fine workmanship alone could not make Kayser Silk Gloves wear longer if the silk itself were not right. In 30 years of silk spinning, we have learned how to make use of a heavier pure silk thread (not weighted), without interfering with the delightful coolness of the gloves. This makes Kayser Silk Gloves wear so much longer than millions of women have learned that the one thing to look for in a silk glove is the trademark "Kayser."

Two clasp gloves are always 50c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25 and up; twelve and sixteen button lengths are always 75c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 and up. The name "Kayser" is in the hem and with each pair is a guarantee ticket that the tips will outwear the gloves.

USE COCOANUT OIL FOR WASHING HAIR

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, the less soap you use the better. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain, unperfumed coconut oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than soap or anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoons will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulified coconut oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.

DOINGS OF THE VAN LOONS—Oh, Well, There'll Be Some More Games

BY F. LEIPZIGER

EXERCISE BENEFICIAL TO WOMEN.

Strength Often May be Gained by Judicious Activity on Part of the Sick.

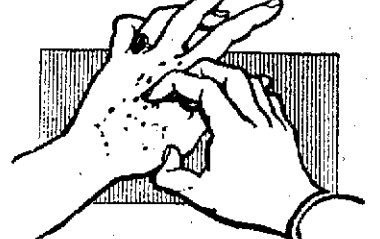

The woman suffering from the ill of her sex often loses ambition and will not exert herself in the least, her muscles become flabby, her circulation bad and nerves wrecked. Another woman suffering from the same ill will lay out for herself a system of convalescent exercises of deep breathing even before leaving her bed. If the woman will but write Dr. Pierce at the Invalid's Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., she can get from medical advice in such cases, also a 1000-page book with advice on Hygiene, How to care for the sick, Sex problems, Diseases of women, etc., all for 3 dimes or 30 cts. in stamps to pay for mailing.

Sick women—thousands of them have been cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is a woman's tonic that has a single-minded purpose in curing the disease of women only. It establishes regularity, heals inflammation and builds up the system. The dull, sunken eye with its dark circles which comes of suffering is banished—also the sallow, sunken cheek, the shrunken form—when this "Prescription" is used. It is a temperance remedy because made without alcohol—of native roots and herbs.

Women who suffer should not wait till a breakdown causes prostration. If you are anxious to correct the derangement of the delicate feminine organs, to overcome irritability and nervousness, waste no time, but get Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription in liquid or tablet form this very day at any medicine dealer and tomorrow you will know that you are on the highway to health and happiness. Write for free 136-page book on diseases of women.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels.—Advertisement.

When Billy Sunday Came to Town

"Well," responded the lawyer, "I must confess I knew nothing about it until it had all been practically arranged. Our new man at the Central church seems to be at the head of the movement."

"I never liked that fellow, Rutledge," said McCrea. "He is one of those confounded preachers who think they ought to be interfering with everybody's business."

"He did preach a strong temperance sermon lately, I understand," said the lawyer, "and spoke somewhat severely about our saloon regulations, but he will soon get tired of that kind of thing. These new men need to be given a little liberty, you know."

"I'll see the council and try to head the thing off," said McCrea as he arose to go. "The visit of such a grafter as Billy Sunday to Bronson is a disgrace."

CHAPTER V.

A Sleigh Ride Party.

THE day after his triumph at the Tourist club was one of inner conflict and discouragement for Reginald Nelson. He was himself astonished at the place which Joy Graham had taken in his life, and he wondered what the subtle charm was which seemed to bind his life to hers.

"She belongs to another man," he said to himself sternly. "I have no more right to seek her hand than if she were married already. Ah," he continued growling, "what is wrong with me? Am I going mad?"

At first he thought he would drop all connection with the Central church and give up both the choir and Tourist club in order that he might not be compelled to meet Joy Graham, but a strange fascination drew him to the scenes where he knew he must suffer anguish of heart.

"I promised Dr. Rutledge that I would sing in the choir," he said to himself decidedly. "I will prove myself a man by attending both choir practices and the meetings of the Tourist club. I shall make a friend of Vivian Derwent, and Joy Graham will never know the torture that she has caused me."

Accordingly, during the next few weeks Reginald and Joy met again and again, but he studiously avoided her as much as he could. Joy Graham was greatly grieved at his conduct, and she sought to be more friendly than ever.

"Why are you always smiling at that Englishman?" asked Roland Gregory sharply one evening at the close of a meeting of the Tourist club.

"I did not know I had been smiling on him so very much," answered the girl innocently, "but I was just now thinking what has gone wrong with him the past few weeks."

"Vivian will soon take the broken heart out of him," said the other sneeringly. "He is dancing attendance on her night and day, and poor George Caldwell is distracted."

"How rudely you talk, Ronald," responded the girl, with a sudden catch in her breath. "I did not know he was dancing attendance on Vivian or any one else."

"They are all talking about it," said her companion. "He escorts her to the dormitory on every possible occasion. I think myself he is making a fool out of Vivian."

Long after midnight Joy was lying awake, carrying on a conversation with herself.

"No wonder he admires Vivian," she said to herself. "She is such a bright, cheerful girl, and he needs just such companionship as hers, but I some way cannot understand why he avoids me as he does."

Thomas Marchmont, the editor of the Bronson Courier, had noticed in the "copy" of his city reporter an account of the address of Reginald at the Tourist club. The account had been written up for the reporter by Joy Graham, and she spoke at some length of Reginald's arrival in Bronson and of his splendid address on London.

"This is the young fellow that Mr. Graham spoke to me about," commented the editor as he read the item. "I must have an interview with him. He will probably be able to give me a good account of the situation in England, and I know that many of my readers would appreciate a good article on that subject just now." Accordingly, he wrote a note to the young Englishman asking him to call at the Courier office. Reginald responded with pleasure.

"I am much pleased to meet you," said the editor. "Mr. Graham has been telling me about you."

"I crossed in the same boat with Mr. Graham's family and with Mr. Townley," responded Reginald, "and they advised me to begin life in Bronson, and I do not think I have made a mistake."

"What are your plans?" "I wish to enter the newspaper world at the first opportunity," replied Reginald promptly. "I think I will be able to succeed best in your own profession."

"Have you ever tried the newspaper work?" inquired the other.

"Just a little," Reginald answered smilingly. "I did some amateur work for a London paper."

"By the way," said the editor, "I wish you to give me an interview on the political and social condition of England at present. Would you be prepared to do that?"

"Certainly—at once."

Mr. Marchmont began asking Reginald a number of questions in regard to different aspects of English life. The editor was surprised at the readiness with which Reginald answered his questions.

"What do the English people think of the Welsh statesman, Lloyd-George?" Mr. Marchmont asked during the interview.

Reginald answered at once in a tone of enthusiasm: "He is the great hero of the common people of England at this hour. They hail him as the Garibaldi of England. His popularity and influence are growing every year, and he is proving himself the great modern statesman of Europe."

"But he is often bitterly criticised by a portion of the English press," interjected Mr. Marchmont.

"The aristocracy fear and hate the man," responded Reginald, with a gleam in his eyes. "No man knows better than I do how bitter is their hatred. They feel that they are in his power and that he is stripping them of their ancient monopolies and privileges, and they fail to understand that he is really saving England from revolution and destruction."

At the conclusion of the interview Mr. Marchmont said abruptly, "Would you be in a position to accept a place on the Courier staff at the first of the year?"

"I certainly would," answered Reginald enthusiastically. "I am engaged at the railroad office for no definite time, and a few weeks' notice will be sufficient in case I desire to leave."

"I will need a city reporter at the beginning of the new year," said Mr. Marchmont, "and I think you are just the young man I want."

Reginald went home overjoyed. About the middle of December Vivian Derwent called at the freight office to see him. She and Reginald were now warm friends, and he felt a freedom in her company which gave him relief during those days of struggle as he was trying to kill out of his heart his devotion to Joy Graham.

After the greetings were over Vivian began enthusiastically: "Oh, Mr. Nelson, a number of the members of the Tourist club are going on a real trip tomorrow night! My father and mother want me to bring out a sleigh load to our home, and we will have a supper there. Can you come?"

"A sleigh ride?" said Reginald, perplexed. "What do you mean?"

"Oh, I forgot you never had a sleigh ride before," said the girl, laughing. "We get a big hayrack and put a lot of hay in it and then fill it up with robes and furs, and we pile in and have the jolliest time. You will come, won't you?"

"I will surely be glad to go," said Reginald. "I have been wanting to visit your home and meet your father and mother."

"And they are just dying to see you," said the girl. "I have been telling them about my Englishman."

The next evening a gay party left Bronson in a large hayrack on a sleigh ride to Vivian Derwent's country home. It was a rare winter night, with a clear moon shining in silvery splendor and the twinkling stars glowing like pinpoints of pure gold in the azure vault of heaven. In seating themselves it had happened that Vivian and Reginald sat opposite Roland and Joy, Reginald being next the driver.

"What a glorious night for our ride!" said Joy, looking up at the radiant moon.

Just then a shrill whistle sounded through the night air. In the distance could be heard the thunder of the limited express from New York to Chicago. For several miles at the point where the sleighing party was jangling along the wagon road paralleled the rails, and Reginald noticed that the driver took a fresh grip on the lines with which he controlled his double team.

"There it comes!" shouted Vivian. "Look, Mr. Nelson, look!" exclaimed Joy Graham excitedly. "Does not that make a great sight?"

Reginald had been watching the horses closely, anxious to assist the driver if possible in case assistance was necessary, but at Joy's exclamation he turned to see the oncoming train.

"Whoa! Whoa!" the driver of the hayrack was shouting in excited tones to his startled team.

The only words heard were the cries of the driver. The whole company sat still, looking forward at the plunging horses, while beyond the red lights at the rear of the limited express were fading from view.

The four horses were now running at full speed. As far as the eye could see the road stretched, straight and broad, but the driver knew there was a sharp curve a couple of miles ahead where the road crossed the railroad track, and he struggled to regain his control.

Reginald Nelson arose to his feet and climbed up on the driver's seat.

"Give me the reins to the front team," said Reginald, getting a firm hold with his feet on the footboard of the driver's seat. He reached over and grasped the lines controlling the two front horses, leaving the driver free to manage the second team.

The frightened horses seemed to know that a strong hand had taken the reins as soon as Reginald grasped them. "Steady!" he shouted, pulling stronger and stronger on the heavy leather lines. "We'll soon quiet them now," he said to the driver as the horses slackened a little in their mad pace. Half a mile farther on the two men were able to bring the teams to a full stop, and Reginald climbed down to his place under the robes beside Vivian Derwent.

"Where did you learn to drive wild horses?" asked Joy Graham, drawing a long breath.

"That was jolly," responded the Englishman. "It makes me think of my boyhood days."

The visit to Vivian's home proved a decided success, and but one discordant note was sounded. That occurred when Roland Gregory in a general conversation about Bronson affairs said:

"This fellow Allan Rutledge is going too far in stirring things up. Now he's going to bring that mountebank Billy Sunday here. He'll regret doing that."

The closing words were spoken with a frown and a threat.

CHAPTER VI.

In the Courier Office.

"GOOD morning, Mr. Nelson. I am glad to see you arrive at your desk so promptly each day. There is some tragedy in the north part of town reported this morning. I wish you would investigate at once."

Mr. Marchmont spoke these words to Reginald about a week after he had begun his work on the Courier. It needed little inquiry for him to find the home where the tragedy had happened, as the entire neighborhood was alive with excitement.

"Shure, an' it's too bad entirely," an Irish woman explained, when Reginald approached the first group he came to and asked what had happened. "Shure, an' it's poor Mae, the purty girl. She's dead."

"Dead?" responded Reginald. "How did she die?"

"Ah," responded the other, pulling her shawl up around her head and shivering in the wind, "there was some rascal back o' it, but, loike as not, they'll never catch him. Her poor mother is heart broke."

The cottage in which the tragedy, whatever it might be, had taken place was one of three cottages built side by side, each exactly a copy of the other. The houses in that neighborhood were occupied almost entirely by the workmen in the large factories near by. Reginald knocked, and a woman about middle age, with eyes red from weeping, came to the door.

"I represent the Courier," said the reporter, stepping inside. "I have called to get the details of the death of the girl."

But despite her careless treatment of the situation, Yvonne awaited with secret dread the coming of that hour when James Brood would say good-by.

Everything has turned out as it should."

CHAPTER XXIV.

"I Cannot Come to Him."

The next day came, bright and sweet, and as far as a blue sky could make it for one who looked aloft. But eyes are not always turned toward the unclouded sky. There are shadows below that claim the vision and the day is bleak.

The ship was to sail at noon.

At ten o'clock the farewells were being said. There were tears and heartaches—and there was fierce rebellion in the hearts of two of the voyagers. Yvonne had declined to go to the pier to see them off and Brood was going away without a word to her about the future. That was manifest to the anxious, soul-tried watchers. In silence they made their way out to the waiting automobile. As Brood was about to pass through the broad front door, a resolute figure confronted him. For a moment master and man stared hard into each other's eyes, and then, as if obeying an inflexible command, the former turned to glance backward into the hallway. Yvonne was standing in the library door.

"Sahib!" said the Hindu, and there was strange authority in his voice. "Tell her, sahib. It is not so cruel to tell her as it would be to go away with out a word. She is waiting to be told that you do not want her to remain in your home."

Brood closed his eyes for a second, and then strode quickly toward his wife.

"Yvonne, they all want me to take you along with us," he said, his voice shaking with the pent-up emotion of weeks.

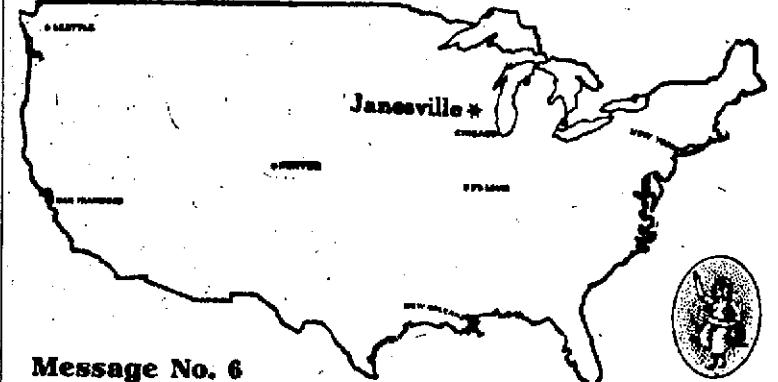

She met his gaze calmly, almost serenely. "But of course, it is quite impossible," she said. "I understand, James."

"It is not possible," he said, steadily, whatever it might be, had taken place was one of three cottages built side by side, each exactly a copy of the other. The houses in that neighborhood were occupied almost entirely by the workmen in the large factories near by. Reginald knocked, and a woman about middle age, with eyes red from weeping, came to the door.

"That is why I thought it would be better to say good-by here and not at the pier. We must have some respect for appearances, you know." She was absolutely unmoved.

He searched her eyes intently, looking for some sign of weakening on her part. He did not know whether to feel disappointed or angry at what he saw. "I don't believe you would have gone if I had."

"You need not say it, James. You did not ask me, and I have not asked anything of you."

"Before I go," he said nervously, "I want to say this to you: I have no feeling of resentment toward you. I am able to look back upon what you would have done without a single thought of anger. You have stood by me in time of trouble. I owe a great deal to you, Yvonne. You will not accept my gratitude—it would be a farce to offer it to you under the circumstances. But I want you to know that I am grateful. You—"

"Go on, please. This is the psychological moment for you to say that your home cannot be mine. I am expecting it."

He straightened up and his eyes hardened. "I shall never say that to you, Yvonne. You are my wife. I shall expect you to remain my wife to the very end."

Now, for the first time, her eyes flew open with surprise. A bewildered expression came into them almost at once. He had said the thing she least expected. She put out her hand to steady herself against the door.

"Do you mean that, James?" she said wonderingly.

"You are my property. You are bound to me. I do not intend that you shall ever forget that, Yvonne. I don't believe you really love me, but that is not the point. Other women have not loved their husbands and yet they have been true and loyal to them."

"You amaze me," she cried, watching his eyes with acute wonder in her own. "Suppose that I should refuse to abide by your—what shall I call it?"

"Decision is the word," he supplied grimly.

"Well—what then?"

"You will abide by it, that's all. I am leaving you behind without the slightest fear for the future. This is your home. You will not abandon it."

"Have I said that I would?"

"No."

She drew herself up. "Well, I shall now tell you what I intend to do—and have intended to do ever since I discovered that I could think for myself and not for Matilde. I intend to stay here until you turn me out as unworthy. I love you, James. You may leave me here feeling very sure of that. I shall go on caring for you all the rest of my life. I am not telling you this in the hope that you will say that you have a spark of love in your soul for me. I don't want you to say it now, James. But as sure as there is a God above us you will say it to me one day, and I will be justified in my own heart."

"I have loved you. There was never in this world anything like the love I had for you—I know it now. It was not Matilde I loved when I held you in my arms. I knew it now for the first time. I am a man. I loved you—I loved your body, your soul—"

"Enough!" she cried out sharply. "I was playing at love then. Now I love in earnest. You've never known love such as I can really give. I know you, well, too. You love nobly—and without end. Of late I have come to believe that Matilde could have won out against you—your folly if she had been stronger, less conscious of the pain she felt. If she had stood her ground—here, against you, you would have been conquered. But she did not have the strength to stand and fight as I would have fought. Today I love my sister none the less, but I no longer fight to avenge her wrongs. I am here to fight for myself. You may go away thinking that I am a traitor to her, but you will take with you the conviction that I am honest, and that is the foundation for my claim against you."

"I know you are not a traitor to her cause. You are its lifelong supporter. You have done more for Matilde than—"

Acid Stomachs Are Dangerous

Common Sense Advice by a Distinguished Specialist.

"Acid stomachs are dangerous because acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach, thus hindering and preventing the proper action of the stomach. It leads to indigestion, flatulence or the cramps of stomach trouble from which people suffer. Ordinary medicines and medicinal treatments are useless in such cases, for they have the source of the trouble, the acid in the stomach as dangerous as ever. The acid must be neutralized, and the stomach prevented, and the best thing for the purpose is a teaspoonful of bisulphate of magnesia, a simple, natural, taken in a little warm or cold water after eating, which not only neutralizes the acid, but also prevents the fermentation from which acidity and indigestion result. Food which ordinarily causes distress may be eaten with impunity if the meal is followed with a little bisulphate of magnesia, which can be obtained from any druggist, and should always be kept handy.—Advertisement.

An Easy Way to Get Fat and Ae Strong

The trouble with most thin folks who wish to gain weight is that they insist on dragging their stomachs or stuffing it with greasy foods, or using useless "flesh creams," or following some foolish physical culture stunt, while the real cause of their thinness goes unheeded. You cannot get fat until your digestive tract assimilates the food you eat.

Thanks to a remarkable new scientific discovery, it is now possible to combine into simple form the very elements needed by the digestive organs to help them convert food into rich, fat-laden blood. This master-stroke of modern chemistry is called Sargol, and has been termed the greatest of flesh-builders. Sargol aims through its regenerative, constructive powers to coax the stomach and intestines to literally soak up the fattening elements of a food and pass them into the blood, where they are carried to every starved, broken-down cell and tissue of your body. You can readily picture the result when this amazing transformation has taken place and you notice how your cheeks fill out, and how your neck, shoulders and bust disappear and you take on from 10 to 20 pounds of solid, healthy flesh. Sargol is absolutely harmless, inexpensive, efficient. Leading druggists of Janesville and vicinity have it and will refund your money if you are not satisfied, as per the guarantee found in every package.

Caution: While Sargol has given excellent results in overcoming nervousness, indigestion, general stomach troubles, it should not be taken by those who do not wish to gain ten pounds or more.—Advertisement.

COUNTY ROAD WORK IS WELL UNDER WAY

Contractors Have Begun Operations in Johnston, Center and Avon —Bids Submitted.

Work on the building of state and county aid highways in Rock county has already begun and within a few weeks will be in full swing, according to Highway Commissioner Charles E. Moore, who is organizing his forces for the biggest road campaign in the history of the county. Contractors are now busy on three stretches of road: the Milwaukee road in the town of Johnston, the Edgerton road in the town of Center, and a piece in the town of Avon which was left incomplete last fall. Bids were submitted today for this year's construction work in the towns of Spring Valley and Avon, and bids have already been received for the jobs in Clinton and Clinton village.

One hundred miles of the county and state system has been gone over with a light grader for the purpose of reworking, filling ruts and putting the roads in shape for the summer traffic. Oiling operations will probably be started early in May as soon as the equipment and material have been received. The roads to be treated will be decided upon by the highway commissioner.

Weather conditions thus far have been most favorable for operations on the highways and indications point to an early completion of the year's work, although some forty miles of road are to be newly built in addition to a large amount of resurfacing work which is scheduled for attention.

RESIGNS AS OIL INSPECTOR TO BECOME COUNTY JUDGE

MOVIES BRING WAR TO JANESVILLE

GAZETTE FILMS PORTRAY PRINCIPAL EVENTS OF GREAT CONFLICT IN STIRRING MANNER.

CAMERA MEN RISK LIFE

Pictures to be Shown at the Myers Theatre This Week Are Epoch Making.

Through its news services the Gazette has kept its readers informed of operations on the vast battlefields of Europe; through its picture service it has shown, as nearly as possible, the terrible destruction wrought by the newest machines of warfare; but only through moving pictures can the real action of the war be reproduced. That is what the Gazette has obtained for Janesville in the series of war "movies," which will be shown at the Myers theatre for two days, beginning Saturday.

Through a special arrangement, the Gazette has brought these "movies" to Janesville for a limited period. The films, 5,000 feet of them, were procured at great risk and huge expense, by photographers for the New York Sun and Chicago Herald. They offer the most vivid, most realistic and most accurate reproduction of the war in the making that so far has been procured.

Four Showings Daily. The performances will be given daily, two each afternoon and two at night. The scenes include every possible phase of the war. Soldiers of all the warring nations are shown, camp, on march, in battle, in the trenches, prison, and in hospitals, which stand as grim monuments to the bravery of many named and unnamed heroes, are shown in these war films.

The pictures are in truth news pictures. They are shown in the Myers theatre because moving pictures can not be shown in a newspaper. They present the biggest event of history right during the making.

Camera Men Risked Lives. War is a terrible spectacle. It is the biggest human interest story that man can make. Few can view it as it is. The firing line is no place for spectators. If one were permitted to accompany the armies at war, only the most courageous would avail themselves of the opportunity. The spectators of war must share the risks of the makers of war.

That is what the camera men did, with the result that Janesville citizens may see just what they saw—the actual war, with all its horrors—from comfortable theatre seats.

Thus the perfection of the motion picture machine, which is acknowledged as one of the greatest modern mechanical developments, brings the war, which undoubtedly is the greatest event of all history, right to Janesville.

JUDGES GIVE VIEWS OF COURT REVERSALS

Timlin and Marshall Make Comments Which Run on Parallel Lines on Citizenship Case.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., April 15.—Interesting comment on the reversal of opinion of the majority in the supreme court decision in the Postel-Marcus citizenship case is offered by Justices Timlin and Marshall in dissenting opinions just filed. Both held that the constitution should be strictly interpreted in its requirement that constitutional amendments be explicitly entered on the journals of both houses, and that entry by number and title is not enough. Their reference to the mental processes of their fellow justices of the majority side provide an element of surprise.

Justice Timlin says in part: "The majority opinion takes high ground respecting our duty to correct today the errors of yesterday, and I am thereby tempted to hope that this court may in the future with like courage, again correct the errors of today, if convinced of such errors; and in suggesting that the majority opinion was the result of panic I do not wish to be understood as implying to my associates of the majority lack of moral or physical courage, but only that their consideration of imaginary consequences destroyed their mental equipment necessary for correct interpretation."

Justice Timlin later on observed that only the tranquil mind can interpret correctly, and that "self-interest, or even zeal, or passion, will usually prevent correct interpretation." He added that "to approach a question of interpretation with any question of a particular case is fatal to correct interpretation."

Justice Timlin did not assent to the theory of the majority that the action of the legislature in proposing amendments to the constitution was ministerial.

"The writers of the constitution," he said, later on, "were as familiar with the other parts of the constitution as were the seven judges of this court on Jan. 12, 1915 when taken by panic they recorded their first and unbiassed impressions of correct interpretation of this section."

Like Justice Timlin, Justice Marshall does not dissent from the affirmation of the judgment but from the methods of it.

"To refer to meanings confessed to be foreign to the thought of those who made and adopted the constitution, as justification for holding that only a constitutionally intended, and hardly that," he said, "will be regarded as an indication of weakness and not worthy of being regarded as even one of those 'plausible pretenses' spoken of by Justice Brandeis in the Knoland case. In the judicial mind is sometimes wont to take refuge in the endeavor to escape real or pretended disastrous results."

Justice Marshall holds that the entry by number and title is not sufficient and thinks the better way is to adhere to their first opinion rendered. "We would make disastrous mistakes," he says, "by being misled into thinking otherwise from noisy approval or criticism of the hour, indicating popular desire for the fundamental law to be administered to those in praesentia would like it, instead of as the people who made it intended."

For the constitution, too far, but I do not think so. For that, the calm judgment of the future I can trust."

EXTEND C. O. D. POST TO RURAL DISTRICTS

Post Office Department Permits Carriers to Take Packages—Rural Route Rules.

Duties of a rural mail carrier are listed in a daily report received this week by Postmaster Cunningham from the Post Office department from Washington. Carriers on rural routes are to carry stamp supplies, receive and deliver special delivery and registered letters to homes within a half mile of their respective routes, take applications for money orders, accept parcel post packages for insurance and also accept C. O. D. parcel post packages. Residents on rural routes, the report requests, should purchase their stamp supplies from the carrier and not leave the money in the mail boxes.

According to a recent amendment to the parcel post laws the insurance and C. O. D. service is to be extended to patrons on rural routes the same as to the patrons of the post office. Notice of the passing of this law was recently received in the form of a bulletin at the local post office.

The new law states that postmasters having delivery service shall see that rural carriers are equipped with parcels post scales, maps and guides, and also furnish them with insurance and C. O. D. tags. These tags are to be given to any rural patron who ships a parcel. The consignee will fill out the card and the carrier will then deliver the parcel, which will be retained by the shipper as receipt.

Inspecting Shrubs. Another order received at the local post office provides that any state wishing to establish a terminal or parcels post office must send to the post office a list of shrubs and trees to be inspected all shrubs and trees sent by parcels post can do so at its own expense. The purpose of such a restriction would be to prevent the introduction into the state of injurious to agriculture pests in shrubs and trees sent by parcels post would be sent to the post office of the consignee after which he could be notified that it arrived. From there it would be sent to the inspection station and later returned, the consignee being compelled to pay the extra postage.

The bulletin also stated that a recent law compels all consigners of shrubs and trees to indicate on the package what is being sent. Failure to comply with the law is punishable by a fine of not more than $100.

MILWAUKEE ATTORNEY OBJECTS TO STATE CONTROL

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., April 15.—The assembly committee on transportation devoted its time again Thursday to a discussion of the local public service utility question which, while the bill applies only to Milwaukee, is arousing interest with all the utilities in the state. The bill was introduced by City Attorney Hoan of Milwaukee, who discussed objections raised to the measure by representatives of public utilities who considered that state regulation is preferable to municipal regulation.

Orfordville, April 15.—Rev. O. J. Kvale and wife are rejoicing at the arrival of a baby boy that came to gladden their hearts and their home of Tuesday evening. Mother and son are reported as doing nicely, and the proud parents are receiving the congratulations of friends.

A. C. Gaarder of Janesville is spending a few days in Orfordville looking after the interests of his business.

Sam Onigard returned from Waukesha on Wednesday evening, where he had been in attendance at the state convention of the Woodmen of the World as a delegate from the local unit.

J. S. Troon, who recently purchased an interest in the blacksmith business of Krueger & Larson, has moved his family to the village.

K. O. Lotthius of Brodhead has purchased a piece of land of Otto Gaarder and will erect a residence on it during the coming summer. The site is just outside of village limits, in the town of Plymouth.

The friends of Mrs. Mable Benson tendered her a shower at the Odd Fellows hall on Thursday afternoon. There was a large crowd present and many beautiful and useful presents. Refreshments were served.

A. J. Waggoner and Delos Wheeler of Beloit were in Orfordville for a short time on Thursday afternoon.

Milton News

Milton, Wis., April 15.—Messrs. W. K. Bonnell, A. L. Burdick, C. A. Davis and C. F. Gesler are representing the college Y. M. C. A. at the Carroll College student meeting.

Warren Ayers and son visited in town Tuesday.

Mrs. P. J. McFarlane of Johnston spent Thursday here.

Mrs. D. S. Gurley has been called to Adams Center, New York, by the death of her father.

Frederick and Miss Pansy have returned from their trip to Missouri.

H. B. Wells and son are both on the sick list.

G. S. Burton of Academy, South Dakota, visited W. P. Clarke this week. They were comrades in the 13th Wisconsin during the civil war.

HOPED TO "LAND OLD DEAR," DIDN'T; NOW SUES HIM FOR $500,000

Mrs. Ida M. McNabb, Milwaukee boarding house keeper and former Upper Michigan charitable association field agent, is suing J. S. Kinney, Stoughton, Mich., for $500,000 for breach of promise. The suit was heard in Washington, D. C., Monday.

Present home. In one of Mrs. McNabb's letters to her housekeeper she said, referring to Kinney, that she "hoped to land the old dear."

LOOK AT CHILD'S TONGUE IF SICK CROSS, FEVERISH

WHEN CONSTIPATED OR BILIOUS GIVE "CALIFORNIA SYRUP OF FIGS."

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has stomach-ache, sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of the little bowels without gripping, and you have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless "fruit laxative," they love its delicious taste, and it always makes them feel splendid.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. To be sure you get the genuine, ask to see that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

Dinner Stories

Mr. Wilkerson, the architect, had been invited down to the Clarks to display the plans of Clark's new house to some guests.

"Here is the front elevation," explained the architect, as he laid the plans on the library table for the inspection of the visitors, "with the outside window and the circular gallery; this is the east elevation, showing the tower."

After various comments had been made by the guests, little Arthur, aged seven, who was enormously interested in the new house, cried:

"And where are the two mortgages father said he was going to put on?"

On the occasion of a Grand Army encampment in a western city a woman who had secured an elevated position on a wagon in a side street wherefrom to watch the parade, became conspicuous by reason of the enthusiasm she displayed. Likewise she was disgusted by what seemed to her the lack of enthusiasm evinced by those near her.

"Cheer!" she shouted. "Why don't you cheer? I guess you'd cheer if you'd lost two husbands in the war, as I did."

One New Year's morning a Kentucky colonel, who is a regular guest of a Louisville hotel, came down to breakfast with a bandage bandaged to his forehead.

"What's the matter with the band?" asked several friends.

"We had a little party last night, and one of the younger men got intoxicated and trod on my hand as he was walking across the room."

MUNICIPALITY OWNED TRUCK GARDENS IN MILWAUKEE.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Milwaukee, Wis., April 15.—Milwaukee will have a large acreage of municipally owned, but privately operated, truck gardens this spring.

The city tax commissioners are planning a turn over to many poor families a number of vacant lots in various parts of the city for cultivation.

In addition, scores of property owners have expressed their intention of devoting their vacant lots to the same purpose, and these will be apportioned through the tax commission. This is expected to effect a material reduction in the cost of living for the city's poor.

This experiment was tried on a small scale several years ago but was largely a failure because of the fact that the lots were located near the city limits and the time lost in traveling to and from them overcame any possible profit. Most of the lots to be used this spring, however, are more centrally located. Even seed and garden implements will be furnished by the city when it is found that a family is too poor to buy them.

BROOKLYN

Brooklyn, April 15.—Arnold Hansen of Barrington, Illinois, has been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. D. Hansen.

Smith's Pharmacy.

For Everybody's Car

The Standard Oil Company's recommendation is one oil—Polarine—for every make and type of car. We could make a special oil for every type of motor. We have the facilities, the experts and the means.

But the study of every motor car on the market showed that the lubricating needs of all standard makes were identical.

Polarine

Polarine—the result—maintains the correct lubricating body at every motor speed and temperature.

Polarine is the best we can produce today. And no other organization commands more experts or has solved more lubricating problems.

Use Polarine. It has proved the cure for the motor troubles of thousands of good cars whose motors bore the blame.

DR. GODDARD

Cured of Gall Stone Farmer Cured of Colic and Appendicitis

Black Creek, Wis. Beaver Dam, Wis.

DR. GODDARD, Dear Doctor:—It is with pleasure that I write to let you know that after taking your treatment I am completely cured. When I first started to doctor you, I weighed 127 lbs., now I weigh 149 lbs. I had been sick for two years and doctored with different doctors, but they did not help me. They wanted to operate on me. One day I met one of your patients whom you had cured and she told me to go to you and I am very thankful that I did. I hope this will help others to believe in you and I wish you success.

Yours very truly,
MARTHA SCHENKE,
Box 4, R. R. 33, Black Creek, Wis.

DR. GODDARD, Dear Doctor:—I had been troubled with a double rupture for ten years, first on right side, then on left. I have taken from seven treatments on my right side and two on the left and I must say it did not interfere with any of my work. I have taken off my trousers and I am perfectly satisfied with the way you have treated me and would advise any one suffering with rupture to take your treatment.

I remain,
OTTO STROHBUSCH,
Box 70, R. R. 5, Beaver Dam, Wis.

You might write one like these, if you let Dr. Goddard treat you.

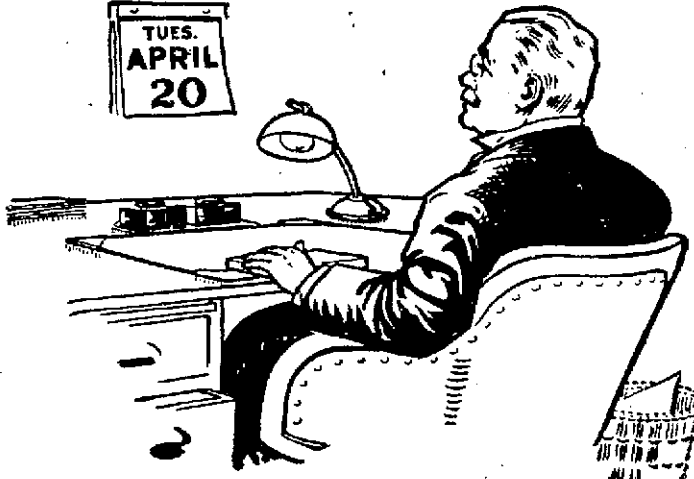

Why not call on him on his next visit to JANESVILLE, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 21, AT GRAND HOTEL, and investigate his methods. It will not cost you a cent. Consultation is free and confidential and such a call in no way obligates you to take treatment.

To further satisfy yourself and prove his claims write to one or both of the above people and ask them, or still better call upon the Doctor and he will show you scores of similar letters, many from people right in and about Janesville.

In any event if you are interested for yourself or on account of a relative or friend and you cannot call personally be sure to send for his Free Book, "Modern Methods of Treating Chronic Diseases Without Operations." A postal card will bring it to you in a plain envelope.

Next visit to Janesville Wednesday, April 21st at Grand Hotel. Hours: 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.; Stoughton, Tuesday, April 20th, at Dallmeyer Hotel, 10:00 a. m. to 7:00 p. m. Address will you have the sound heart, steady nerves and good digestion of your younger days?

Many men and women reach the prime of life, burdened with stomach trouble, headaches, constipation, nervousness, heart flutter, etc., and frequently the cause is the drug, caffeine, in the coffee they drink.

You can quickly tell if coffee is injuring your health by stopping it ten days and using.

INSTANT POSTUM

This delicious, pure food-drink contains no caffeine nor any other harmful ingredient. It is wholesome and invigorating, with a snappy flavour very like that of the Old Gov't Javes.

And Instant Postum is so easy to make. Put a level teaspoonful in a cup and add hot water—that's all.

The convenience of Instant Postum is seen at a glance. Sold in 30c and 50c tins. Some prefer Postum Cereal—the original form, which must be well boiled, 15c and 25c packages.

Grocers sell both kinds, the flavour is equally delicious and the cost per cup is about the same.

MANAGING THE DAIRY BULL

Allowing Animal to Run With Cows Is Not Good Practice—Plenty of Exercise Is Urged.

(By G. W. BARNES, Arizona Experiment Station.)

The practice of permitting a bull to run with the dairy cows cannot possibly be recommended. Especially is this true during the breeding season, and with the dairyman who is milking a large number of cows and has a constant demand for milk, it means practically the entire time. A bull kept in a small paddock where he gets plenty of exercise, pure water and food rich in bone and muscle-forming material such as alfalfa, oats and wheat bran, will be more vigorous and give better service than a bull permitted to run with the cows. It is very essential that the bull should have plenty of exercise, which he cannot get if confined in a stall. Where it is impossible for the owner to fence securely about one acre for the bull, he can very easily provide the necessary exercise, by stretching a strong wire between two substantial posts and fastening the bull by chain from the ring in his nose to a ring which slips loosely over the wire. This makes a secure fastening and one which experience has proved practicable.

When kept in this way the bull is also more easily managed. A dairy bull makes a dangerous pet, and should never be so far trusted as to be in a position where he can get the advantage of his attendant. Those unfortunate accidents which have sometimes occurred have usually been due to overconfidence on the part of the attendant.

CONVENIENCE OF MILK CANS

"Shotgun" Can Is Easily Covered, Set in Water and Not Difficult to Handle.

Milk and cream from even a few cows can be much more conveniently handled in regular milk cans than in the shallow pans and wide-mouthed buckets commonly used.

These cans may be bought in various sizes. For handling cream and skim milk where separators are used, or even where cream is set to sour for butter making, the "shotgun can" is very convenient. It can be easily covered and set in water and is convenient to handle.

Where even a few cows are kept, a separate room for handling the milk should be provided to relieve the oftentimes overcrowded kitchen. Well houses frequently have a room which, with the addition of a concrete floor, shelves and windows, makes a very convenient milk room.

EFFICIENT RATIONS FOR COW

Where Silage Is Not Obtainable Mixture of Alfalfa, Corn and Gluten Meal Is Good.

A ration of 12 pounds alfalfa, 35 pounds corn silage, four pounds ground corn and three pounds bran proved most efficient for a 1,200-pound cow producing 30 pounds milk daily at the Nebraska station.

Where silage is not available, the next best combination is 15 pounds alfalfa, six pounds ground corn, eight pounds corn stover and two pounds gluten meal.

Where neither silage nor alfalfa are at hand, feed 12 pounds millet hay, 12 pounds sorghum hay, two pounds ground corn and three pounds oil meal.

KEEPING DAIRY COWS CLEAN

Piece of Plank, Arranged in Sloping Manner, Will Cure Animal of Stepping Into Gutter.

Some cows have a disagreeable habit of backing into the gutter and getting their feet full of manure. A piece of plank set about an inch below the top of the gutter next to the cow and sloped to the bottom of the gutter in the rear will remedy this trouble. On stepping on this sloping plank, the cow will slip backwards, causing her to step up. She will forget the habit in a few days, and then the device is no longer necessary. The plank should not be longer than the length of one stall so it can be removed for cleaning the gutter.

THANKSGIVING DINNER

By MARY DARLING.

(Copyright, 1914, by the McClure, Newspaper Syndicate.)

"N-no," said Forest Harwood, meditatively, "there isn't anyone I can think of, dear."

"I have racked my brain, too, so I guess we'll have to eat our Thanksgiving dinner without guests this year," said his wife.

"I'm sorry Bess and John couldn't come, but they seemed to have planned something of their own," Harwood went on.

"They're going to be married in the spring, I believe."

"Um-hu," mumbled Harwood, as he became interested in his morning paper.

On the morning of Thanksgiving day Mrs. Harwood announced that she was going to church.

"All right, dear, go ahead and I'll run down to the pond and have a try at the ice. If I find any weebegone-looking individuals who seem not to be expecting a bite of turkey, may I bring them along?" he asked his wife as she left for the village church.

"The bird is big and there are plenty of trimmings," Mrs. Harwood replied.

Harwood reached the pond to find it already black with crowds of skaters. He joined them, and was about to go home after an hour's good exercise when his eye fell upon John Adams.

"You, John? I thought you were going out of town for Thanksgiving dinner?" he exclaimed.

"I—yes, I had intended to, but it all fell through," the young man returned.

"Come along up to the house then, and have dinner with us. Where is Bess?" Harwood asked tactlessly.

"Bess? Ah—oh, she's having dinner with some relatives, I believe," John Adams managed to answer.

"Come on! Helen will be delighted. She's at church, as usual." And Harwood fairly dragged his friend home.

When Mrs. Harwood arrived she was smiling broadly, as her husband opened the door for her. "I've found a guest for dinner! Guess who?"

"I'm not a good guesser—but so have I."

"Mine is Marian Peck. She was in church alone and we sat together. It seems that she was to dine at her uncle's—John's stepfather, you know, but for some silly reason about Bess she wouldn't go at the last minute. So I asked her to come to us."

Forrest began to look worried. He said nothing.

"What's the matter? Aren't you pleased, dear?" asked Helen, anxiously.

"Oh—ah, yes, but my guest is none other than John Adams, so if it's dining with him that Marian is trying to avoid, she's strictly in it."

Mrs. Harwood laughed. "All we need now is Bess to make it a truly successful dinner party, eh, dear? Next time we'll let well enough alone and dine alone."

The telephone rang and the young wife ran to answer it. She returned in a moment wringing her hands. "Worse and more of it. It's Bess! She's in tears. Says she and John were to have had a cosy little dinner at some romantic inn they both knew about. Her family hadn't been able to get home from Europe, you know. But some way or other she—Bess—discovered that John would be breaking up a family party at home, a party of which his stepfather's niece, Marian, you know, was to be a member, and she refused to go with him. They quarreled, had words about Marian, and she's heartbroken, and lonely and is coming to dine with us! There! Can you beat it?"

"It'll be some Thanksgiving!" Harwood remarked in current vernacular.

"Marian, the bone of contention, Bess and John, the quarreling lovers! Fine company!" returned Mrs. Harwood.

When all three guests were in the house, Bess Burleson upstairs taking off her outer wraps, Marian Peck in the living-room by the fire, and John Adams scowling in the library, the host and hostess met in the hall.

"They're here," whispered Helen in her husband's ear.

Forrest nodded. "Don't I know it?"

"I'm going to let it work itself out," explained Helen.

And at that moment Bess descended the stairs, Marian stepped from the living-room and John appeared in the library door.

There was absolute silence as the five looked from one to another.

"What a jolly little party!" said Forrest, boldly.

"Oh—ah—yes—very jolly, very jolly!" echoed John Adams.

And then and there there were explanations.

And with that, thanksgiving and congratulations were mingled so closely that they could not be separated.

Turned Down.

"Last night I hot-footed around to old Mr. Blower's house and asked him for his daughter's hand."

"Well?"

"Then I cold-footed back."

Quite So.

"Young Whitcomb should get on in the world. He's a plunger."

"Yes. What's he doing?"

"Dentistry."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Whitewater News

Whitewater, April 16.—Mrs. Mary Bradford, superintendent of schools at Kenosha, gave an address before the normal school students yesterday morning on "Better Teaching."

In the afternoon she spoke to the practice teachers of the training school on "How to Estimate the Value of a Teacher."

These were two excellent addresses and were greatly enjoyed by all who heard them. Mrs. Bradford was at one time supervisor of the Normal training school here and has many friends who were pleased to greet her in Whitewater.

The baseball season at the normal is on and much interest is being taken in the game this year. The first game is to be played Saturday on the normal field with Jefferson high school. New wooden bleachers have been erected for the convenience of the spectators and it is hoped the season will open with a large crowd to support the home team. Following is the schedule for the season: April 24, Marquette, here; May 1, Northwestern, here; May 6, Ripon, there; May 7, Carroll, there; May 8, Milwaukee normal, there; May 14, Plattville normal, there; May 19, Ripon, there; May 22, Milwaukee normal, there; May 29, Plattville normal, there; June 5, Carroll, here.

UPHOLD M'ADOO IN RIGGS BANK STAND

FRIENDS OF SECRETARY OF TREASURY DEFEND HIS POSITION IN MATTER.

HIGH-HANDED METHOD

Bank's Control Over Things Financial In District of Columbia Said to Have Been Most Arbitrary.

Washington, April 16.—While there is much sympathy for the Riggs National Bank in its great battle against the government, Secretary of the Treasury W. G. McAdoo, and Comptroller of the Currency John Skelton Williams, the officials attacked by the bank, have their friends who assert that at the bottom of the whole controversy lies the pique of the duty to supply the bank and its correspondents, of which the National City Bank of New York was one, with the latest information concerning the condition of national banks throughout the country. She also was there for the purpose of keeping her eyes and ears open and to report direct to the bank just across the street from the treasury department, every bit of information concerning the work of the comptroller's office which the Riggs bank could and did use in the course of its business.

Ordered Woman Removed. "When the secretary heard of the woman's activities he gave peremptory orders for her removal from the comptroller's office and notified the officials of the Riggs bank that her presence there as the personal and confidential representative of the institution would no longer be tolerated. The officials of the bank pleaded with Secretary McAdoo to permit the clerk to continue her work in the comptroller's office. But Mr. McAdoo was deaf to their appeals. The young woman was compelled from that time to get her information in the same manner as representatives of other financial institutions.

NEWARK YOUNG COUPLE MARRIED IN BELOIT

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Beloit, April 14.—At nine o'clock this morning at St. Jude's church, Father Hantz performed the ceremony which united in marriage Miss Mabel Cousin and William Carroll. A large circle of friends and relatives witnessed the ceremony after which they extended congratulations and hearty good wishes to the young couple. The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Cousin, and the groom is a son of Mrs. T. A. Carroll, all living west of town. The attendants were Miss Louise and Edward Carroll, sister and brother of the groom. After the ceremony a sumptuous breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents in the town of Newark to about thirty near relatives. The bridal couple left on an afternoon train for Chicago, and after a week's visit with relatives there and in Milwaukee they will return and make their home at Oregon, Ill., after May first.

PLAN TO REFURNISH HOMES OF REFUGEES

Organization Perfecting to Help Unfortunates That Have Suffered Through German Invasion.

Paris, April 16. (By Mail to New York.) While the French government itself has undertaken the rebuilding of the thousands of homes destroyed in the present war, the women of France have just completed an organization to insure their repatriation. The population in the invaded districts they assert will be as helpless to refurnish the homes as they would be to rebuild them.

The "Union Fraternelle des Femmes" is the organization which has just perfected the project. Madame Amelie Hammer, the president, has just explained what is to be undertaken and how it is to be accomplished. "Our work," she said, "is to be as much moral as it is social. We propose merely to help the unfortunate and not to give them charity. Every person whose home has been destroyed and who is unable to refurnish the new one which the government builds for them, will have help from us in just the degree they need. It is absolutely imperative, we will furnish their homes without expectation of repayment. But the others will pay us back in installments in conformity with their possibilities.

"While it is inevitable that Paris will be the center and the brain of this work, the organization which we have already perfected the details for other centers to participate in it in all of the provinces adjacent to the invaded districts we have arranged for at least once one city to be a depot for supplying the furniture to the new houses. This will give a quicker response to the needs of the destroyed villages and isolated houses and will also result in a distribution of the work that will be involved in the manufacture of the household equipment necessary."

France is already making a reasonable use of her war prisoners in keeping up the necessary manual labor of the nation. For the time being at least, the sending of the prisoners to Algeria and Morocco, where thousands have been employed almost from the first days of the war, has been temporarily abandoned. They are now being utilized closer to home.

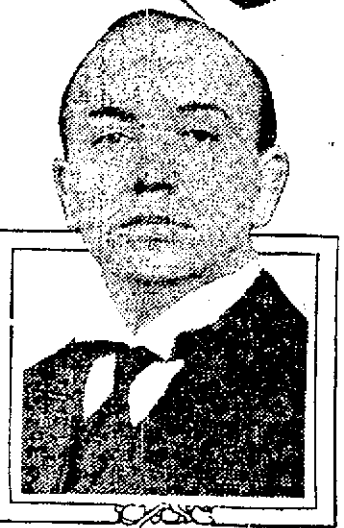

In Corsica about 3,000 are now being worked in the mines. In the agricultural districts of France about 450 are being worked at Puy-de-Dôme; about 1,050 in Brittany while another lot is used in railway construction along the north coast. While large contingents are being utilized in other public works in the Champagne, Creuse, Ardeche and Herault.

AT THE APOLLO.

Gaby Deslys on Monday. Gaby Deslys, the celebrated international star, and the sensation of two continents, makes her first and exclusive appearance in motion pictures in an original story of the stage, "Her Triumph," produced in Paris by the Famous Players Film company. This feature, in four parts, is the current production on the Paramount program at the Apollo for Monday. "Her Triumph" was written around the star, and is so constructed as to display to the utmost advantage Mlle. Deslys' versatile and astonishing talents. The production introduces many novelties, such as the Dance Deslys, a realistic and impressive reproduction of the interior of a theatre, with a complete company on the stage, numerous and other striking effects. Of no little importance, also, is the presence in the cast of Harry Pilcer, who has been associated with Gaby, since her first visit to this country, as her dancing partner, and who appears in her chief support in this notable film production.

Left to right, top: Louis D. Brandeis, Riggs Bank and its president, C. C. Glover. Bottom: J. C. Adkins, J. S. Williams and W. G. McAdoo.

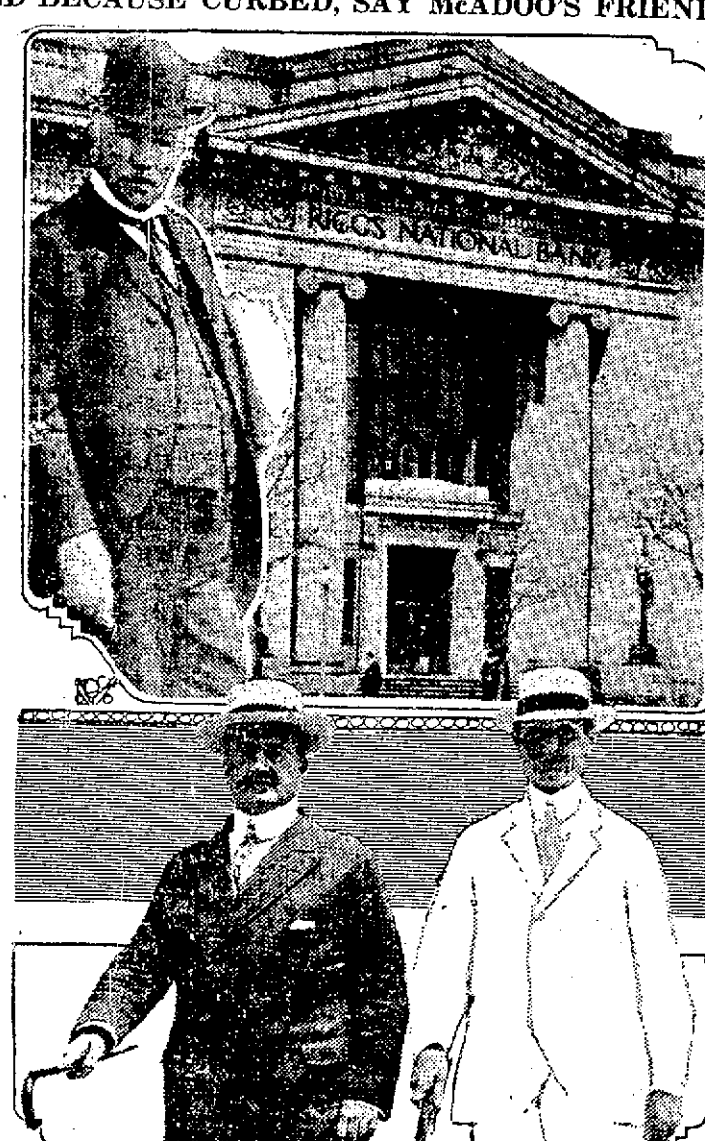

That the Riggs National Bank in Washington brought its injunction suit against Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo and Comptroller of the Currency John Skelton Williams because the latter gentlemen would not permit it to exert an undue influence in the treasury department, is the statement made by the friends of the defendants. This is denied by President C. C. Glover of the bank. Louis D. Brandeis, Boston lawyer, and Jesse C. Adkins, Washington attorney, have been retained by the department of justice to fight the government's side of the controversy.

bank's officials who were angered when refused a free hand in matters connected with the United States treasury department. According to these persons, the bank, its officials and employees always have had a cordial welcome in the treasury department. Whenever matters in which the officials of the bank were interested were under consideration or about to be acted upon by the treasury department, the Riggs Bank was the first institution to be informed of the fact. Just how they were able to gain possession of such material data was known only to the officials of the treasury department and to the officers of the bank themselves.

Extensive Operations. "The ramifications of the Riggs bank have been felt in every direction in Washington and the District of Columbia," said a man who is close to McAdoo. "There has been no important real estate or the improvement of any particular section of the city in which the officers of the bank or their intimate associates have not participated. If the officers of the institution placed their veto upon contemplated projects, financial or otherwise, they fell through. The endorsement of the Riggs bank was necessary if the success of the undertaking was to be assured.

Throughout the years of activity and influence, the officers of the bank were never molested, and their operations were not questioned by the government officials. The bank was left alone to do as it saw fit, and no government official had the temerity to question the motives of those responsible for the conduct and management of the institution.

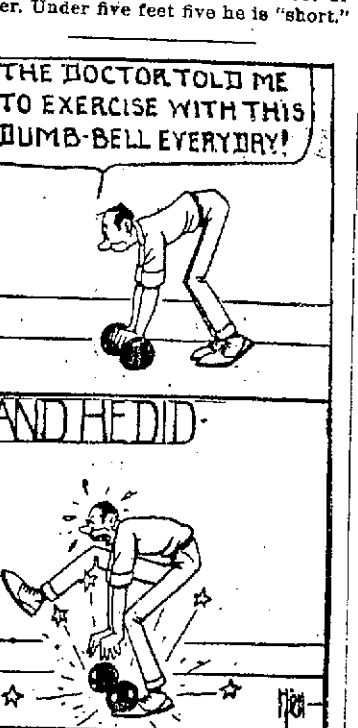

McAdoo Discovered Influence. "Shortly after Secretary McAdoo assumed his duties as head of the treasury department he discovered a concrete case which illustrated just how the Riggs bank had ingratiated itself into the good graces of former administrations, and the influence it wielded with this institution. In the office of the comptroller of the currency a woman employee of the bank occupied a desk. It was her which started the break between the secretary's office and the officials of the Riggs bank, Milton B. Allen, vice president of the institution, and a former assistant secretary of the treasury, did not conceal his displeasure at the action of Secretary McAdoo and the treasury department. There has been a great deal of talk ever since, culminating in the present suit against the government officials.

The attorneys for the government in the controversy, Louis D. Brandeis and Jesse C. Adkins, have been hard at work in the preparation of their case. They will seek to show that the defendants did not abuse their power in an effort to ruin the Riggs bank. There is every indication that the case will be carried to the supreme court, since each side, apparently is preparing to fight to the end.

Diminutives. The man who is "below five feet in height" may well be reckoned as being among the "diminutives." The average height is around five feet six inches. A man is "tall" when he is six feet or over. Under five feet five he is "short."

"MUNICIPAL" SALOON FINANCIAL SUCCESS

Monthly Profit of Liquor Shop Run by City in Lemmon, S. D., is One Thousand Dollars.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Lemmon, S. D., April 16.—If business keeps up for the next two months as it has since last July Lemmon's municipal saloon will have contributed approximately $12,000 toward the schools and municipal improvements. The monthly profit of Lemmon's one saloon is $1,000 a month.

Before the last law limiting the number of saloons per capita throughout the state, Lemmon, with a population of 1,250 inhabitants, had eight saloons. Competitors were keen and to make their respective saloons "attractive" some of them became the lowest manner of dives. When the per capita law was passed, Lemmon was allowed two saloons. There was intense rivalry for the two licenses, a proposition that the city go into the saloon business was put to a vote and killed.

Then the Lemmon Civic association was formed after the city last spring adopted the commission form of government. The association included men of many different walks of life and business. Ministers were among the membership. The association was given a saloon license. A manager, one of the strongest prohibition workers in the city, was appointed. He receives no salary. The two barkeepers receive such good salaries that graft of any kind is eliminated. By the association's rules the sale of liquor is not pushed. A blacklist contains the names of persons who cannot buy liquor here. Patrons who once show a disposition to look even one time too frequently into the cup that cheers are blacklisted. Known drunkards may not enter the saloon. Neither may persons whose families are known to be in want. Mayor B. R. Watt is one of the strongest boosters of Lemmon's municipal saloon.

"Since the saloon started last July," said Mayor Watt today, "it has given satisfactory results from every point of view. When we had eight saloons here you can readily imagine what element dominated our politics. We have eliminated nearly all of the factional fighting and are all now working for the best interests of our city. We have practically no drunkenness in Lemmon. Certainly no man has become a drunkard in Lemmon since the municipal saloon started. I would surely recommend it as being far above private ownership."

SURE WAY TO GET RID OF DANDRUFF

End Itching Scalp and Stop Falling Hair—At Once.

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

If you want to keep your hair looking rich, do by all means get rid of dandruff. For nothing destroys the hair so quickly. It not only starves the hair and makes it fall out, but it makes it stringy, straggly, dull, dry, brittle and lifeless, and everybody notices it. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.

CAPTAIN INSISTS KRONPRINZ WILL RAID AGAIN; BUT BELIEF IS CURRENT THAT BOASTS MADE TO ATTRACT PATROL OF ALLIES

(c) Epes. Newport News, Va.

Although Captain Thierfelder, the boyish-looking commander of the Kronprinz Wilhelm, insists that he means to make a quick get-away from Newport News and resume his raids against the commerce of Germany's foes, the belief is current at the Virginia port that it is his intention to have his cruiser play the role of the now idle Eitel Friedrich, and in so doing attract a patrol and then intern. No one can look at the much battered and deeply dented sides of the once famous liner nor at her bulged decks and badly sprung beams, nor have listened to the muffled, but ceaseless throb of bilge pumps without realizing that there is excellent grounds for this belief.

FIND SUBSTITUTE FOR FLOUR IN COTTON SEEDS; IS MORE EXPENSIVE.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Dallas, Tex., April 15.—Wouldn't it make you feel good to read that they have invented a substitute for flour? A "better than flour" substitute? And wouldn't you think at once of the high cost of living, getting a severe jolt in these days when the price of bread is increasing.

Well, a substitute for flour has been invented. It is cotton seed flour. But it's no cheaper than flour. In fact, just now it's twice as expensive. You may now have cotton seed biscuits, cotton seed bread, and cotton seed rolls. There's no limit to the use of the new flour that doesn't apply as well to ordinary flour. But the cotton seed kind is most expensive. A dozen rolls made from the new flour costs twenty cents here today.

The manufacturers of the cotton seed stuff predict that when the process is better developed the new flour may be cheaper than ordinary flour.

Not so many years back the cotton seed was considered of little or no value. It was left in great stacks in the fields and used as fertilizer. Then a series of remarkable discoveries added millions to the value of each cotton crop by developing new uses for the cotton seed. It is now made into meal and hulls for live stock, oil for cooking and flour for baking as well as leaving something for fertilizer. The oil has numerous uses, even appearing in adulterations of ice cream.

WATER POWER MEASURE IS GIVEN FURTHER HEARING

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Madison, Wis., April 15.—The waterpower hearing continued Thursday with the discussion getting down to lines where there may be some basis for a compromise. The discussion was in a large degree informal, and was participated in by T. C. Bundy of Eau Claire, Senator W. M. Bray and Assemblyman Dismbeck.

One of the propositions for a compromise bill is to make a distinction between waterpowers established on streams which are navigable and where to some extent the construction of the power can be termed to be in the interests of navigation. The claim is advanced that it is believed this can be constitutionally done under the supreme court decision.

TRUCKS TO BE ADDED AT MILWAUKEE OFFICE.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Milwaukee, Wis., April 16.—Bids for 16 motor trucks and three wagons to carry mails between the postoffice, substations and depots closed today. Practically the entire vehicular carrying system will be thus motorized July 1.

The contract calls for eight motor trucks, or the same number of three wheeled motorcycle vans, capable of carrying not less than 600 pounds each; four motor wagons with a capacity of not less than 1,500 tons each, and two others carrying not less than one ton each. In addition, three light parcel post wagons will be used.

HOW TO MAKE WARMING PAN

Arrangement Has Proven to Be of Much Assistance in Many Kinds of Stomach Troubles.

When Dickens, in one of Mr. Pickwick's celebrated speeches, laid emphasis on warming pans, he little dreamt that even these might some day be classed among electrical devices, yet such is the case. Any mechanic can make a simple type such as we are picturing, which consists of a flat and preferably curved tin case with an opening at one end through which an ordinary incandescent lamp can be introduced, says the Popular Electricity. The opening is closed by a flange bolted to the end, which flange supports both the lamp socket and the receptacle for an attachment plug through which the patient can disconnect the device from the circuit without reaching for a switch.

Of course, this arrangement is neither as convenient nor as adaptable as the more recent heating pads made of resistance material imbedded in a flexible mat or webbing, but it is easily made by any mechanic and has proven helpful in many forms of stomach troubles. Indeed it is one of the electrical appliances for which the summer with its severe strains on our digestive apparatus brings no less a demand than does the winter.

TELEPHONES ON PARTY LINE

One or More Subscriber May be Called to Exclusion of All Others by Means of Switches.

In describing a party line telephone system, invented by Edward Stout and Joseph S. Kupka of Stockport, Ia., the Scientific American says:

In this case the more particular purpose is to produce a reliable system in which the number of telephones may be considerable and in which the selectivity of the particular station or stations to be called is rendered comparatively certain. Provision is made for calling one or any larger number of subscribers, to the exclusion of all other subscribers upon the line. The system further comprehends means whereby a single station may call up simultaneously all other stations on the line. It also relates to lock-out mechanism, whereby when any two or more stations are connected up for talking, all other stations are excluded and are unable to interfere with business being transacted over the line. The engraving shows the electrically-operated contact mechanism forming part of the switch and controlling various circuits.

Trackless Trolleys in England. At present there are no trackless trolleys in England, but a great activity has been manifest in that country recently in behalf of this form of locomotion. As a result of this there are at present awaiting consideration by parliament no less than 16 applications for franchises of this character. A number of these requests are from railroad companies desiring to operate the trolleys as feeders to the railroad. Others are made on behalf of private corporations, and a few by the companies which equip these lines, and are designed to serve as demonstrations.

Light of Ordinary Firefly. Prof. McIntosh says that a temperature approaching 2,000 degrees Fahrenheit would be necessary to make a light equivalent to that emitted by an ordinary firefly. The enormous waste of energy in all industrial methods of producing light is a matter of common knowledge, and the example of the firefly remains undisturbed by man.

Heron's Good Appetite. The heron, which has an average weight of only four pounds in spite of its size, has been known to eat three and one-half pounds of fish at one meal.

A SWINBURNIAN GARDEN

If sticks were what the rose is
And rubbish were the leaf
I need not ask your pardon
For showing you my garden
'Twould be what each one knows
Is of flower beds the chief—
If sticks were what the rose is
And rubbish were the leaf.

If weeds were what green hedges is
And plantain were but grass,
My lawn would be a fair one
And not a skimped and bare one
With bald spots where the edge is
I would not say—"Alas!"
If weeds were what green hedges is
And plantain were but grass.

If burdock were but clover
And sand were candytuft
The bees in gladness coming
Would fill the air with humming
Instead of darting over
As though in temper, huffed,
If burdock were but clover
And sand were candytuft.

Were parsley morning glories
And pigweed hollyhocks
Then nodding fragrant flowers
Would sway through sun and showers
Like honey-laden dories
Tied up to fairy docks—
Were parsley morning glories
And pigweed hollyhocks.

Were dandelions pansies
And thistles mignonette
Then would my little garden
Be as the vale of Arden
Filled with all scented fancies
In blossom-beauty set—
Were dandelions pansies
And thistles mignonette.

If plantain were but blue grass
And sand were only turf
Each morn my clicking mower
Would only serve to lower
The velvet of the new grass:
I'd be a singing sort
If plantain were but blue grass
And sand were only turf.

Daily Thought.

Nine-tenths of the good that is done in the world is the result not of laws, however wise, or of resolutions, however strong, but of the personal influence of individual men and women.—Sir Samuel Chisholm.

NURSE ON WAY TO PEACE CONFERENCE

Miss Constance Drexel.

Miss Constance Drexel, the American nurse who recently returned from the war zone where she nursed battle victims, is now again on her way abroad. This time she is going to The Hague, where Dutch women have arranged for a big Women's Peace Conference April 28-30. Since women are the greatest sufferers in times of war, says Miss Drexel, they should be the dominating factor in the present movement for peace.

URIC ACID IN MEAT CLOGS THE KIDNEYS

Take a glass of Salts if your Back hurts or Bladder bothers.

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick-headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.

CARRANZA GOVERNMENT IS WELL REPRESENTED IN WASHINGTON

Officials of Carranza agency in Washington. Left to right, standing: Daniel Dillon, Jose M. Arredondo, Oscar E. Duplan and Santiago Garcia. Seated: Luis A. Paredo, Eliseo Arredondo and Luis d'Antin.

With what is practically the same sort of an organization as represents Mexico in the time of peace and occupying the embassy building owned by the Mexican government, the Carranza faction is seemingly in command of Mexican affairs in the United States. During the days of Ambassador Romero, the Diaz government purchased a fine house in Washington for an embassy and when the last accredited ambassador, Manuel Calero, left he turned it over to Raphael Zubaron, at that time head of the Constitutionalist junta. Zubaron turned it over to Senor Eliseo Arredondo, now head of the Constitutionalist agency in Washington.

Probably Mamma Knew.
Little Elsie—"My papa's a minister, and that is best." Little Grace—"My papa's a lawyer, and that's best, too." Little Elsie—"No, your papa is not a really lawyer; he just practices law. But my papa is a really minister, because he just preaches and never practices. My mamma says so."—Judge.

Source of Loneliness.
Loneliness is one of the bugbears of mankind. With some people, it is a constant source of unhappiness. They make plans, sometimes exceedingly complex, to keep it at bay. They think that it lies outside. It really lies within their own consciousness.

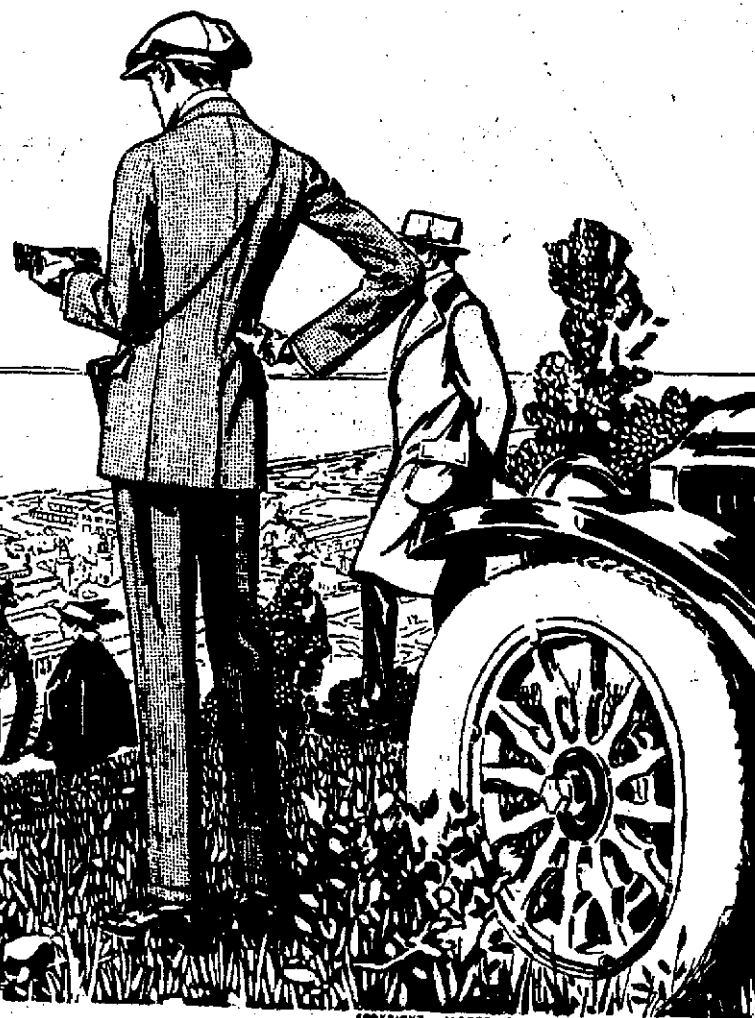

Adversity.
A high character might be produced, I suppose, by continued prosperity, but it has very seldom been the case. Adversity, however it may appear to be our foe, is our true friend; and, after a little acquaintance with it, we receive it as a precious thing—the prophecy of a coming joy. It should be no ambition of ours to traverse a path without a thorn or a stone.—Charles H. Spurgeon.

SAGE TEA DARKENS HAIR TO ANY SHADE

Don't stay Gray! Here's an Old-time Recipe that Anybody can Apply.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and abundant. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is messy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old recipe which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, feverish, itchy scalp and falling hair. A well-known, down-town druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and abundant.
